ENGINEERS IN CITY TO STUDY TIRE SAVING

State Experts Confer With War Transportation Board on Traffic Survey.

COMMITTEES NAMED

Share-Ride Groups Appointed To Direct Organization of Mansfield Plan.

Six traffic engineers from state headquarters were in conference this afternoon with members of the Mansfield war transportation board with the view of determining procedure for an exhaustive survey of automotive traffic here.

With gasoline rationing soon to be coupled with tire rationing under rigid government supervision, the Mansfield transportation board last night appointed six all-embrasive committees charged with close cooperation with the parent board

C. K. Smaltz, local administrator for the conservation of vital war transportation, presided at this afternoon's conference in the board room of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company. Representatives of various committees and industries engaged in defense work were in attendance.

In announcing the committee appointments at a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium, Smaltz said each group in itself will, in fact, be a miniature war transportation board, and be a means of "furnishing creative ideas with the hope of results to be accomplished"

Committee chairmen were impressed with the fact that his committee is all-powerful and all-embrasive. "Each group," Smaltz said, "is enthusiastic as to their anticipated endeavors and each has been notified that whatever may be their activities they are to keep the News-Journal informed in order that the entire public may be apprised of their action."

Advertising and publicity—Ray Calene, Robert Richards and Vincent H. Lodde

Share-the-ride — (Industry executive contacts)—Richards, Harold Hoover and A. L Allen

Share-the-ride—(other than industry; planning and publicity)—Calene, Lodde and Vernon Kyle.

Labor contacts for committee on share-the-ride—F. E. Berkey, J. P Brown, Joseph Stottler, Steve Thoma and Alton Geary.

FOUND GUILTY

9 'Friends of Progress' Face Prison For Subversion.

SACRAMENTO, Cal —(INS)— Found guilty by a jury which took nine hours to deliberate their fate, nine members of the isolationist organization "Friends of Progress" today awaited sentencing in Sacramento superior court on charges of failing to register as members of a subversive group.

Superior Judge Ray T. Coughlin will pass sentence Monday. The sentences carry a maximum of $5,000 in fines, five years in prison, or both.

Those convicted include Robert Noble and Ellis O. Jones of Los Angeles, who already are under five and four-year sentences, respectively, for conviction on federal sedition charges in Los Angeles federal court.

HIT NAZI SHIP

Russians Smash At Enemy In Black Sea Attack.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The British radio broadcast a Moscow dispatch today saying that Russian planes damaged a German destroyer in the Black Sea during an attack on a concentration of enemy warships.

The BBC, heard here by CBS, quoted another dispatch from the Russian army newspaper Red Star as saying soviet forces had cut an important Nazi supply line near the occupied Black sea port of Novorossisk.

'WIN WAR DAY'

Governor Would Change Name of Nov. 11 Observance.

TRENTON, N, J. — (INS) — A proposal that Nov. 11 be designated "win the war day" instead of Armistice Day was forwarded today to President Roosevelt.

Gov. Charles Edison made the suggestion in a telegram to the chief executive.

Fight To Kill Amendments That Balk Passage of Teen-age Draft

Succeeds Hepburn

Attorney General Gordon Conant, above, has assumed the duties of Ontario's Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn, who resigned after a series of differences of opinion with the leaders of Canada's war effort. Conant will continue to hold his office as attorney general.

EX-MANSFIELD FLIER KILLED

Lieut. Arthur M. Hughes, Son of Former Pastor Here, Dies in Pacific.

Lieut. Arthur Morris Hughes, jr., 24, former Mansfield resident and son of a former pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Mansfield, was killed Oct 14 while on an army flight in the South Pacific area, it was revealed today in a letter received by D O Meese from the family.

Lieut. Hughes was an experienced army flier and had participated in six successful bombing missions over the Buna area of New Guinea occupied by the Japs, a news dispatch said.

In recent letters to his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Morris Hughes of Ridgewood, N. J., Lieut. Hughes described bombing raids in which he had participated. Immediately after war was declared last December he was on patrol duty along the Pacific coast. Later he saw service in Hawaii and Australia.

He flew a plane which he named "Dumbo" for the Walt Disney movie character. Disney is a relative of the Hughes family.

About a year ago, Lieut. Hughes wrote his parents that he flew his plane over Park avenue west at 350 miles an hour

Mrs. Roosevelt Reaches Britain For Royal Visit

LONDON —(AP)— Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt has arrived in Britain as the guest of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth "in order to gain first hand knowledge of British women's war activities and to visit United States forces in Great Britain," Buckingham palace announced today.

The first lady, accompanied by her secretary, Malvina Thompson, flew to England by a route which was not disclosed.

She expected to stay two or three weeks and inspect every phase of the British war effort she can in that limited time.

The announcement from the Royal palace said:

"Mrs. Roosevelt has arrived in this country at the invitation of the king and queen in order to gain first-hand knowledge of British women's war activities and to visit the United States forces in Great Britain. Mrs. Roosevelt will be the guest of the king and queen during the first part of her visit."

LEADERS SEE TRAINING AS MAJOR ISSUE

Prohibition Rider Evaporates as Senate Buries It In Committee, 49-25.

QUICK ACTION SOUGHT

Barkley Hopes For Enactment Without Restrictions By Nightfall.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel, D., Tex., announced today he would sponsor an amendment to the pending 'teen-age draft bill to abolish time-and-a-half overtime pay requirements for work in excess of 40 hours a week.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Having gently nudged aside the prohibition issue, administration leaders trained their fire today on a series of other amendments that threatened to delay enactment of the lower draft age bill.

Chief among these was a demand that 18 and 19-year-old men be kept out of combat troops until they had undergone six months or a year's military training.

The wet-dry issue evaporated for the time being yesterday when the senate voted 49 to 25 to send back to its military committee an amendment by Senator Lee (D., Okla.) which would have banned the sale of alcoholic drinks from military areas. Senator Burton (R., Ohio) voted with the majority. Senator Taft (R., Ohio) was not recorded.

Lee, 50-year-old ordained Baptist minister, once known as the "boy orator" from Oklahoma, was disappointed but undismayed by this parliamentary maneuver which probably will keep his proposal bottled up in committee for some time.

Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.) told reporters he hoped all

FIRE CHECKED

Blaze That Caused $300,000 Damage Now Under Control.

SANTA MONICA, Cal. —(INS)— The forest fire in the Santa Monica mountains which blackened thousands of acres and destroyed property estimated at more than $300,000 finally was brought under control today.

Officials said that the blaze had been checked along all fronts and, barrying flying sparks from isolated fires now under control, hundreds of fire fighters who waged a three-day battle against one of southern California's most destructive forest fires would be allowed to leave the area at dawn.

The costly blaze was reported temporarily checked early yesterday but flames leaped across roadways and hastily-constructed firebreaks to new areas at nightfall.

New York Has First Daytime Air Raid Alert

CHANGE TANK, PLANE PLANS

U. S. Officials Stress Power and Strength Instead of Quantity, Says FDR.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt disclosed today that the administration, in the light of battle experience, was cutting down on the volume of tanks and planes so far as their number is concerned, to emphasize greater power and strength.

Production of tanks, he said, is falling short of the 45,000 goal set for 1942, yet the same amount of steel is going into these land fighters.

Similarly, the chief executive told a press conference, the goal of 60,000 planes this year would not be reached, but that there was greater emphasis on hitting power and range.

What the new total production figures will be were regarded by Mr. Roosevelt as a military secret.

He said that constant changes in the war production program were being dictated by actual experiences in combat areas. Consequently, he said, he meets regularly with some of his advisers to modify the program wherever necessary, as well as to determine whether the country is doing its utmost in the production field.

At the same time, the president renewed his prophecy that it probably would be necessary to cut down on the production of luxury and semi-luxury goods in order to Supply of Women for Ohio Industry Barely Tapped, Report.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio women are obtaining industrial jobs in ever increasing numbers but the supply has hardly been tapped, Director Wade Hammond of the federal employment service in Ohio said today.

The service placed 17,794 women in all types of jobs in September, compared with 15,203 in August and 11,267 in July September placements included 16,665 in non-agricultural positions.

Bricker Arrives Tonight for Big Republican Rally

Richland county Republicans will stage their major rally of the campaign at 8 p. m. today at Radio City hall where Gov. John W. Bricker, candidate for re-election, will be the principal speaker.

The governor is expected to arrive from Ashland about 8:30 p. m., and following his address here will go to Galion for a meeting.

Speaking at the rally with Gov. Bricker will be Congressman J. Harry McGregor, also seeking re-election; Judge R. B. Putnam of Millersburg, candidate for the Fifth district appeals court, and the county candidates.

Ralph Hardy, county G O. P executive chairman, said it was probable that other Republican candidates for state offices would be at the rally. The program will include musical numbers and other entertainment features.

NAZIS RESIST

Barricade Selves in Canada Prison to Avoid Shackles.

OTTAWA —(AP)— German war prisoners, at Bowmanville, Ont., attempted to resist reprisal shacklings on Oct. 10 and submitted only after serious disorders in which both prisoners and guards were injured, the Canadian government announced last night.

Some of the prisoners, a statement by Defense Minister J. L Ralston disclosed, barricaded themselves in their barracks and refused to obey orders until guards chopped a hole in the roof and sprayed them with a fire hose.

One prisoner was wounded in the leg by a rifle bullet and two suffered light bayonet wounds, Ralston said.

MAYOR STUDIES COFFEE PLAN

Intimates He's Contemplating Program But Calls Problem National One.

Although announcing yesterday he was unaware of any municipally-inspired efforts anywhere to provide "stop-gap" control of diminished coffee supplies in order that all may have a breakfast cup, Mayor W J Locke intimated today he is contemplating study of means to relieve conditions here but sees it as a problem of national rather than local scope.

In Cleveland Mayor Frank J. Lausche's civic committee, composed mostly of wholesalers and retailers, is pushing plans for a form of volunteer rationing for that area designed to establish a more equitable method of distribution. Immediate coffee rationing by government agencies is asked by the Cleveland committee.

Lausche, in a proclamation a few days ago, called upon Clevelanders, "in a spirit of patriotism and self-denial," to reduce their own coffee consumption, to avoid hoarding, and to share any excess supplies with others not so fortunate.

Thief Steals Three Pocketbooks While Women Play Bridge

While Mrs. E. L Croskey was entertaining members of her bridge club in the living room of her home at 20 Glessner avenue yesterday evening a sneak thief stole three of the guests' purses from a table in an adjoining room

Croskey told police last midnight that when he placed his auto in the garage around 11 p. m. he noticed a prowler peering at him from between neighboring garages. Hastening into his home to obtain a flashlight he returned to the yard but was unable to find trace of the person.

When Mrs. Croskey's guests were preparing to depart the purse thefts were discovered. The rifled bags were found on the front porch.

FIVE FLIERS KILLED

SEBRING, Fla. —(AP)— All five of the crew of an army bomber from Hendricks Field were killed when the plane crashed near here last night, the army announced today.

All Roads Lead to Stadium Field for Tonight's Mansfield-Massillon Game

Tonight's the night, and all roads lead to Mansfield high school's Stadium field.

Those stereotyped phrases once were sports writers' favorite introductions to stories on leading sports events, but they were never more true nor more accurately applied than for tonight's annual football battle between the Mansfield Tygers and the Tigers of Massillon Washington high school, heading toward their eighth straight state championship.

One year ago Mansfield was all agog over their Tygers' chances of ending Massillon's long reign at the top of Ohio high school football. For one long week the war not only took a back seat, but was entirely forgotten.

More than 5,000 Mansfield fans travelled to Massillon by special train, auto, bus and thumb to see the titanic struggle of these two football giants. Most of the fans were included in the state's record crowd of 22,000 that jammed Massillon stadium. Many were in the overflow crowd of 5,000 that watched the game from the adjoining hillsides. And all rejoiced over the 6-6 tie which marred Massillon's record.

The war is not forgotten this year. Both the army and the navy will have their share in tonight's program.

Battle Units Sail Boldly to Indian Ocean

(By Associated Press)

Great Britain has sent a powerful battle squadron into the Indian ocean, it was disclosed today, amid increasing signs that the zero hour may be near for an Allied offensive against Japanese-conquered Burma.

Authoritative London quarters said the armada included at least three battleships, the aircraft carrier Illustrious and a large force of cruisers and destroyers, all under the command of Admiral Sir James Somerville.

No explanation was forthcoming for the frank disclosure of British fleet movements, heretofore always shrouded in the deepest secrecy, but observers interpreted it as a move to draw Japanese forces from other theaters of the far Pacific war.

Outspoken hints of an impending Allied drive into Burma have been coming from United Nations headquarters at New Delhi, India, all this past week, following the return of Gen Sir Archibald P. Wavell, British commander-in-chief, from an inspection tour of the India-Burma frontier.

Only yesterday, the Tokyo newspaper Nichi Nichi said Japanese military quarters expected the Allies to re-open the Burma campaign between November and April.

Besides avenging the "hell of a beating" which Gen. Stilwell frankly knowledged had been suffered by the Allies in Burma, a renewal of the Burma campaign would serve to detour Japanese forces which might now be preparing for an attack on Russian Siberia.

If successful, it would also reopen the Burma road supply line to China.

Meanwhile, Japan's big new drive in the Solomon islands appeared to have been thrown off schedule as the invaders still withheld their main forces and Allied bombers continued to keep them off balance with heavy new blows.

Rendezvousing in the northern Solomon islands about 10 days ago, the enemy warships and transports have been the target for an almost constant rain of Allied earial bombs as they waited the zero hour to surge toward the prized American-held airbase on Guadalcanal island.

The navy disclosed that Japanese troops in the heavy jungle on northern Guadalcanal had attempted a minor thrust at the American positions on Oct. 20. The "feeler" was repulsed and the navy said yesterday there was no "material change in the military situation" there.

An enemy bomber, believed to have been on a reconnaissance mission over the island, was brought down by anti-aircraft fire. The United States aircraft continued to seek out and bomb Japanese troops and supply concentrations on Guadalcanal.

SWEEP: RAF Blasts Genoa, Turin In Heavy Night Attack

(By Associated Press)

Britain's giant bombers spread air-raid alarms across Europe before dawn today as they soared 1,500 miles round trip over the Alps to blast the Italian war foundries city of Genoa and the big royal arsenal center of Turin.

The Italian high command said the RAF inflicted heavy damage to buildings at Genoa in a raid of "notable dimensions" and set fires in Turin.

First reports indicated that the attack was executed by the RAF's newest four-motored Lancasters and Stirlings, each capable of carrying up to four tons of bombs on long-range forays.

Genoa is the home of the big Ansaldo munitions and airplane works. It is also a main port for supplying the Axis armies in North Africa

"Not one of our aircraft is missing," the British announced

Flying through bright moonlight, the raiders touched off a chain of alarms on the continent and sent anti-aircraft guns into action at Vichy and Lyon, France. Geneva, Switzerland, had two air alerts.

It was the first raid on Italy by Britain-based bombers in more than six months and underscored Air Minister Sir Archibald Sinclair's statement two days ago that "we have been hitting Italy from the air and we shall go on doing so."

RAF planes based in the Mediterranean area have struck repeatedly at Sicily and points in southern Italy.

An Italian communique said the RAF attacked Genoa in several

THREAT: Nazis Say They'll Force French to Do War Work

(By United Press)

VICHY—German military authorities in Paris have threatened to use force on French workers if they refuse to go to Nazi war factories in accord with Chief of Government Pierre Laval's agreement to provide 150,000 skilled French workers, it was learned today.

Gen. Ernst von Steulpnagel, Nazi military governor of occupied France, issued an ultimatum after a large number of workers failed to appear at a railroad station for their scheduled departure on Oct. 21 and 22.

Laval, who has succeeded in getting approximately 22,000 volunteer workers to go to Germany in an exchange for war prisoners, returned to Vichy yesterday from Paris, where he had consulted with German occupation authorities.

He conferred immediately with Chief of State Henri Philippe Petain and later received Fernand de Brinon, Vichy delegate to Paris, and Jacques Bernaud, delegate general for French-German economic relations.

(Radio Moscow, in a broadcast recorded by the United Press in London, said today that "Laval will be punished for selling the workmen of France into German slavery." It said he would be tried "with all the severity the process of criminal law prescribes."

(A dispatch to the London Daily Mail from the French frontier said factory workers at Nantes, Rouen and Clermont-Ferrand had burned their records in order to evade compulsory labor service in Germany. Fifty persons were reported arrested.

(The dispatch said 20 persons were killed and 40 injured in a head-on collision of two French trains near St. Quentin, believed caused by saboteurs.)

Packing Yule Boxes for English Children

Christmas boxes to delight the children of war-torn England will be shipped east tomorrow by the boys and girls of Richland County Council of the Junior Red Cross

Packed in each of the city schools and by most of the county pupils the 125 boxes bound for Britain contain such items as small toys and games, crayons, pocket knives, marbles, soap, washcloths, toothpaste, hair ribbon and sewing materials.

Into each box is also tucked a packet of garden seeds from the victory gardens cultivated by school pupils last summer.

The articles were selected by the Junior Council of each school from a list suggested by the national Red Cross recommending that 12 items be chosen from a list of 24. All of the gifts were manufactured in the United States and none of them are toys patterned after the instruments of war.

Miss Elsie McFarrden, Hedges teacher, supervised the project in the city schools, while in the county, each teacher-sponsor was responsible for the work.

Seventy-five boxes were packed in the city and 50 in the county so that no school had more than a half-dozen to supply. St. Peter's and Country Day school and also the two kindergartens taught by Mrs. John Carr and Mrs. Ruth Robbins were included in the group of participating schools.

Funds for the purchase were taken from the Junior Fund obtained through the collection of sales tax stamps, the sale of pop corn balls and various other means.

Last year's Christmas boxes, due to the war, didn't reach England's schools until just before Easter. "This year the Junior Council is hoping for better luck," said Mrs. W. J. Bishop, county chairman of the organization.

BUILDS JUNK 'PULVERIZER'

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah—(U.P.) — The inventiveness of a Salt Lake welder, Charles Lyngle, president and general manager of the Utah Welders, Inc., has resulted in furthering this city's scrap metal drive.

Junk dealers in the city had been wary about purchasing scrap sheet metal, such as automobile fenders and bodies, because it had been impracticable to bundle the metal for shipping.

The machine invented by Lyngle, however, smashes the sheet metal together into bundles 24 inches by 14 inches by 16 inches, with each bundle weighing about 250 pounds.

ESCONDIDO, Cal. — (U.P.) — Elmer Escher, nimrod by preference, is ashamed of himself as he is proud of his nine-year-old son Tom. Mr. Escher took a shot at a 200-pound buck and missed, whereupon son Tom drew a bead and brought the buck down. Antlers of the latter had a spread of 31½ inches.

FIND WAY TO KEEP 'EM FRESH

Experiments at Maine's agricultural station have shown that prime berries, not over-ripe, can be kept for several months under controlled refrigeration and still retain their freshness.

Berries held at a uniform temperature of 41 degrees in an atmosphere with an oxygen content of five per cent were in the best condition at the end of the season.

LOANS FOR EMPLOYED WOMEN

We're addressing any employed woman in this community who has a problem which cash can solve.

Borrowing money is never wise if it means making difficulties worse . . . but there are certain circumstances in which a well-planned loan is the best way to get out of debt many times. Obligations which seem discouraging when added up in a lump can be paid off comfortably when broken down into monthly payments. And when ready cash isn't available for needed medical or dental work, clothing, for training which will increase one's earning power—then a loan is also common-sense.

Here at Personal Finance Company we specialize in serving women. If you need cash—$10 to $250 or more—we'll see that you get it without embarrassment or delay, without involving your friends or employer and without the need for putting up special security. We make loans on just your own signature — because we have found that business women, in this community, honor their obligations.

There is no difficulty in handling monthly payments on a loan here. For example:
$7.53 a Month Repays a $75 Loan in 12 Months

If you need cash, we'll be glad to serve you. Special quick service during lunch hour. Come in or phone then if that's best for you. It will be a pleasure to serve you.

SAYINGS OF MUHAMMAD:

"The first thing that God created is my Soul."

"I was a Nabi (Prophet) while Adam was yet between water and mud."

"When a man dies his activity stops, except in three cases: continual alms, knowledge useful for mankind, good children praying for him."

"The man is really safe who has purified his heart for belief, has made his mind sound, his tongue true, his soul peaceful, his character straightforward and his eyes to see."

"I am an Apostle unto those who have found me in life as well as unto those who will be born after me."

"With me the prophethood has ended, and there will be raised up no prophet after me."

"On the day of Judgment I am the lord of the children of Adam."

"I am the nearest of men to Jesus, son of Mary, here and hereafter; there is no Apostle between me and him, and Apostles are the sons of one father, their mothers are different and their religion is one."

"There will come to the people such a time that one who forbears to uphold his religion will be like a man holding fire in his hand."

"The Hour of Judgment will not come 'till the Black Stone is lifted and the Quran is put aside."

"Reform yourselves, every one of you in such a way that vice and inclination for bad deeds may be permanently eradicated from your minds. This is the best of my advice to you. Think of the afterlife and cultivate your conscience to a degree that evil thoughts and bad ideas become automatically alien to you like poison. One Muslem cannot give better advice to another. These bad deeds which Allah has warned you to refrain from, take care not to approach them. This is the best of advice and the best of knowledge."

(From the Holy Prophet's First Friday Sermon. See our free booklets.—M. N.).

(Note: The Black Stone has been kept there as a monument being of the time of Abraham and his son Ismael, when they were building the Temple of K'aba. See also (Psalms 118:22; Math. 21:42; Daniel 2.45). For particular details about the Black Stone: Abraham, his only son Ishmael (not Isaac, as a second child cannot be the only son); Hagar (an Egyptian Princess), the wife of Abraham (Gen. 16:3); Sacrifice (which was not commemorated by the Israelites in any of their festivals whereas the Arabs have been celebrating it throughout the ages); prophesies about the advent of the Holy Prophet Muhammad, the promised one of all Prophets—Abraham, Moses, David, Solomon, Isaiah and Jesus — please see "Muhammad and Other Prophets," "Muhammad in the Ancient Scriptures and the Healing Qualities of the Holy Quran," "The Islamic Faith and the Institution of Prayer—The World and the Perfect Man,' and some other booklets published for free distribution by the Islamic Mission of Mansfield, Ohio).

ISLAM: ITS PROMINENT FEATURES

Islam is the same religion as that which was taught by the Prophets from Noah to Muhammad, with Jesus included. They brought certain laws of life from God, and declared that human salvation lay in following those laws. Unfortunately most of their teachings have been lost owing to the vicissitudes of time. Islam came and found all their Sacred Books either extinct or corrupted by human interpolations.

The Qur-an renewed the old teachings and restored them to their original form. God, in His infinite mercy has seen fit to keep the teachings of Muhammad free from corruption, and they have reached us as they were delivered to him.

ISLAM, THE RELIGION OF PEACE—The word Islam literally means: (1) Peace; (2) the way to achieve peace; (3) submission; as submission to another's will is the safest course to establish peace. The word in its religious sense signifies complete submission to the Will of God.

OBJECT OF THE RELIGION—Islam provides its followers with the perfect code whereby they may work out what is noble and good in man, and thus maintain peace between man and man.

THE PROPHET OF ISLAM—Muhammad, popularly known as the Prophet of Islam, was however, the last Prophet of the Faith. Muslims, i. e., the followers of Islam, accept all such of the world's prophets, including Abraham, Moses and Jesus, as revealed the Will of God for the guidance of humanity.

THE QUARAN—The Gospel of the Muslim is the Quran. Muslims believe in the Divine origin of every other sacred book, inasmuch as all such previous revelations have become corrupted through human interpolation, the Quran, the last book of God, came as a recapitulation of the former Gospels.

ARTICLES OF FAITH IN ISLAM—These are seven in number: belief in (1) Allah; (2) Angels; (3) Books from God; (4) Messengers from God; (5) the Hereafter; (6) the Premeasurement of good and evil; (7) Resurrection after death.

The life after death, according to Islamic teaching, is not a new life, but only a continuance of this life, bringing its hidden realities into light. It is a life of unlimited progress; those who qualify themselves in this life for the progress will enter into Paradise, which is another name for the said progressive life after death, and those who get their faculties stunted by their misdeeds in this life will be the denizens of the Hell—a life incapable of appreciating heavenly bliss, and of torment—in order to get themselves purged of all impurities and thus become fit for the life in Heaven. State after death is an image of the spiritual state in this life.

The sixth article of faith has been confused by some with what is popularly known as Fatalism. A Muslim neither believes in Fatalism nor Predestination, he believes in Premeasurement. Everything created by God is for good in the given use and under the given circumstances. Its abuse is evil and suffering.

PILLARS OF ISLAM—These are five in number: (1) Declaration of faith in the Oneness of God, and in the Divine Messengership of Muhammad; (2) Prayer; (3) Fasting; (4) Almsgiving; (5) Pilgrimage to the Holy Shrine at Mecca.

ATTRIBUTES OF GOD—The Muslims worship One God—the Almighty, the All-Knowing, the All-Just, the Cherisher of All the Worlds, the Friend, the Guide, the Helper. There is none like Him. He has no partner. He is neither begotten nor has He begotten any son or daughter. He is Invisible in Person. He is the Light of the Heavens and the Earth, the Merciful, the Compassionate, the Glorious, the Magnificent, the Beautiful, the Eternal, the Infinite, the First and the Last.

FAITH AND ACTION—Faith without action is a dead letter. Faith by itself is insufficient unless translated into action. A Muslim believes in his own personal accountability for his actions in this life and in the hereafter. Each must bear his own burden and none can expiate for another's sin.

ETHICS OF ISLAM—"Imbue yourself with Divine Attributes" says the noble Prophet. God is the prototype of man, and His Attributes form the basis of Muslim ethics. Righteousness in Islam consists in leading a life in complete harmony with the Divine Attributes. To act otherwise is sin.

CAPABILITIES OF MAN IN ISLAM—The Muslim believes in the inherent sinlessness of man's nature, which, made of the goodliest fibre is capable of unlimited progress, setting him above the angels, and leading him to the border of Divinity.

THE POSITION OF WOMAN IN ISLAM—Man and woman come from the same essence, possess the same soul, and they have been equipped with eual capability for intellectual, spiritual and moral attainment. Islam places man and woman under the like obligations, the one to the other.

EQUALITY OF MANKIND AND THE BROTHERHOOD OF ISLAM—Islam is the religion of the Unity of God and the equality of mankind. Lineage, riches and family honors are accidental things; virtue and the service of humanity are the matters of real merit. All mankind is of one family, and Islam has succeeded in welding the black and the white into one fraternal whole.

PERSONAL JUDGMENT—Islam encourages the exercise of personal judgment and respects difference of opinion, which, according to the sayings of the Prophet Muhammad, is a blessing of God.

KNOWLEDGE—The pursuit of knowledge is a duty in Islam, and it is the acquisition of knowledge that makes men superior to angels.

SANCTITY OF LABOR—Every labor which enables man to live honestly is respected. Idleness is a sin.

CHARITY—All the faculties of man have been given to him as a trust from God for the benefit of his fellow-creatures. It is a man's duty to live for others, and his charities must be applied without distinction of persons. Charity in Islam brings man nearer to God. Charity and the giving of alms have been made obligatory, and every person who possesses property above a certain limit has to pay a tax, levied on the rich for the benefit of the poor.—(See "Muhammad and Other Prophets.")

MIRACLES OF MUHAMMAD

The Miracles of Muhammed (Peace be upon him) are of two kinds: (1) Sensible ones, those supernatural facts perceptible to the outer sense. (2) Those which appeal to minds:

The first is of three classes: (1) Those relating to his sacred personage: as the glorious brilliance of his face and eyes, the mark of Prophetship on his body, the perfect beauty of his constitution and character. (2) His extraordinary attributes: as his surpassing eloquence, his infinite mercy and benediction; his exceptional firmness, sereness and valour; his perfect truth and uprightness. (3) Supernatural facts outside of his sacred person and attributes as parting the moon in two (for details see the "Translation of the Holy Qur-an," by Maulana Muhammad Ali), streaming of water from his fingers (see "252 Authenticated Miracles of Muhammad," by F. K. Khan), hitting on the eyes of his enemies by throwing little pieces of stone.

The miracles appealing to mind are six kinds:

(1) In spite of being born in a country devoid of any educational institution he has grown up a Master, perfect in every branch of life, and founder of a system of religion encompassing all truth and goodness.

(2) Whereas he had not been cared for and reared by anyone until he was forty, he showed exceptional qualities in life and produced an unique Book like a glorious sunrise, "a standing miracle."

(3) In the way of performing his duties as an Apostle he met all difficulties with success, and after attaining his sacred goal he denied himself the indulgence of all appetites and inclinations, preferring to live humble, content, plain and pure as before.

(4) His prayers were always favorably accepted by his Master.

(5) He has prophecied many things in remote pastor future.

(6) His characteristic virtues have been told in early scriptures and he stated this fact to all believers of old scriptures.

MOHAMMAD IN WORLD SCRIPTURES

An unique and wonderful book by Maulana Abdul Haque Vidyarthi, a book of which Muslims and non-Muslims alike felt the need for centuries.

The fundamental assertion of the Holy Quran that the Holy Prophet held all his predecessors to be true messengers of God, so did they anticipate him in their writings, and gave the happy news of his advent to their communities.

Maulana Abdul Haque has presented such a logical and rational account of a claim, put forward by the Holy Quran. He has treated separately the Hindu, Buddhist, Zoroastrian, Hebrew and Christian Scriptures, and has collected all the prophecies about the advent of the Holy Prophet. The text with necessary references is reproduced in photographic plates. The literal translation of the text is that done by scholars of that particular religion, and it is proved that scriptures of all nations and of all times contained a fore-knowledge of the Holy Prophet's advent.

MOHAMMAD IN WORLD SCRIPTURES is thus a loud confession on the part of all the world religions as to the divine origin of the mission of the Holy Prophet. It shows the World Scriptures to proclaim out of their own mouth that Mohammad (peace be on him) was the World Prophet, whose advent was foretold.

A VERSE FROM THE HOLY QUR-AN

"There is no piety in turning your faces towards the East and the West (in your formal prayers), but he is pious (he is prayerful) who believes in God and the Day of Judgment, the Angels, the Scriptures, and the Prophets, who for the love of God (i. e., not with selfishness) disburseth his wealth to his kindred and to orphans, and the needy and the wayfarer and to those who ask for, and for the redemption of Captives; who observeth prayer and giveth alms, and who is of those who are faithful to their engagements when they have covenanted, and who are patient in adversity, and hardships and in times of trouble. These are they who are straight, these are they who are pious."—(The Holy Qur-an).

PREHISTORIC MAP PREPARED

Ohio Professor Pictures South America as Three Continents.

CINCINNATI — (INS) — There were once three South American continents instead of one, in the opinion of a University of Cincinnati paleogeographer.

After a five-year study, Dr. Kenneth E. Caster, professor of geology at the university, has produced a map which is believed to be the first complete picture of the face of South America as it appeared some 250 to 300 million years ago.

In that era, great seas covered South America in the region now marked by the Andean mountains and spread widely across southern Brazil and the Amazon valley.

Instead of one immense triangular land mass as it is now, South America was then made up of three great land masses separated by wide seas. Dr. Caster's map shows these ancient continental areas extending far into the regions now the Atlantic and Pacific oceans and Caribbean sea.

Dr. Caster also believes that seas covered large areas of South America for hundreds of millions of years and that the present aspect of the continent came into being only a few tens of thousands of years ago—just a matter of a few yesterdays in geologic time.

Rocky Fork Dredging 80 Per Cent Complete, Says Rusk.

Work of dredging the Rocky Fork, the $28,500 job in progress under the Mansfield Conservancy district is now approximately 80 per cent complete, Deputy County Engineer Walter Rusk said.

December 1 had been set as a deadline for completion of the project.

Dredging has been completed to date as far as the Erie railroad bridge, by the Mansfield Tire and Rubber Company plant.

THEATERS

Skelton Again.

Red Skelton, the former Mansfielder, continues his soar in the cinema heavens in "Panama Hattie," film adaptation of the pretentious Broadway musical show, opening Saturday at the Ohio. As a sailor sworn to protect Ann Sothern in the title role of "Panama Hattie," a night club singer loved by all who know her, Skelton is aided by two fellow comedians, Rags Ragland and Ben Blue. Lavish production numbers of the South American type fill the musical that also features Lena Horne, colored singer, and the Berry Brothers, dancers.

* * *

Ginger Masquerades

Ginger Rogers masquerades through "The Major and the Minor," Madison comedy attraction opening Saturday, as a 12-year old. She plays a small-town girl who tires of New York and wants to get back home but doesn't have the carfare. So she poses as a minor and buys a half-fare ticket. The train ride is eventful particularly after she "crashes" the compartment of Ray Milland, a major with an eye defect. Robert Benchley, Rita Johnson and Ginger's own mother, Lela Rogers, appear in the production. "Apache Trail," with William Lundigan is the co-feature.

* * *

Dramatic Story.

Jean Gabin, who spent much of his life along the waterfronts of his native France, has a role in "Moontide," the Ritz headline, that is almost a "natural" for him. Gabin appears as a romantic adventure-seeking dock worker along the Pacific waterfront with Ida Lupino as leading lady. Adapted from a best-selling story by Willard Robertson the picture also presents Claude Rains and Thomas Mitchell. "Where Trails End," is the second picture.

* * *

Crime Thriller.

A chain of criminal circumstances is untangled by a slick detective, Ellery Queen, in the Park attraction, "A Close Call for Ellery Queen." The story revolves around a retired millionaire whose efforts to locate two long-lost daughters are complicated by the presence of blackmailers from his unsavory past. William Gargan as Ellery Queen is called upon to solve the mystery. Margaret Lindsay and Charles Grapewin are in the cast. "King of the Stallions," featuring several tribes of American Indians, is the co-feature.

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

If you've turned in all your scrap --- good work! You've got the thanks of the boys at the front. But don't stop there. From now on be a scrap spotter. Whenever you see a lot of scrap metal that ought to be put into the fight --- report it!

ONE OF THESE COUPONS MAY WIN A BATTLE

Remember, the need for scrap won't end until the war does. And the war can't end our way if steel mills shut down. So keep scrap on your mind constantly — when you're walking — when you're riding — when you're working.

Watch for metal that isn't being used. Keep an eye out for abandoned machinery and structures. Nothing is too big to be broken up and carted away. And nothing is too small to save a fighting man's life!

Report the things you find and we'll contact the proper authorities. Whether it's a wrecked car rusting in the weeds—an old, unused bridge—or a forgotten saw mill . . we want to hear about it. Never mind what it will cost to get it out, we'll get things moving — because our soldiers need that metal!

Isn't it little enough to ask? While our boys are hunting Japs and Nazis, will you balk at hunting up the scrap that will help them win their fight? While they are giving their lives, will you hesitate to give a little time and thought to this problem?

Make it a point of honor to find and report unused metal. Carry these coupons in your purse or wallet. Then when you spot idle metal, fill one out and send it in to this newspaper.

Get going and keep looking. A life may well depend on your sharp eyes!

Church Marks Centennial

Celebrating the centennial of its founding and homecoming, congregation members of the St. John Evangelical Lutheran church in Perrysville will observe the day Sunday with a picnic dinner at noon followed by a special worship service at 2 p. m. to be conducted by guest pastor, Rev. D. Bruce Young, of the First Lutheran church in Shelby.

Six years ago the rural St. John's church and the Grace Lutheran church at Perrysville merged to form one organization and in 1937 erected the new building (top picture) on the site of the Grace church.

Rev. George M. Schrack, (lower picture) pastor of the present church starts in on his 18th year of service at St. Johns where he began his pastorate duties. A native of Richland county, Rev. Schrack is a graduate of Oberlin college and Moody institute in Chicago.

Several relatives of the 19 charter members from the rural church are expected to be present for the services along with ministers from neighborhood churches.

PAYS CALL

Pigeon Moves in on Ohio's Industrial Claims Office.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—A Pennsylvania carrier pigeon called on the claims division of the industrial commission in the state office building recently, and liked the place so well he refused to go home.

The pigeon flew into the office, made himself at home and when someone put him out a window he flew around a while and came right back. Through bands on his legs, the pigeon was identified as belonging to A. R. Sourilliard, of Allentown, Pa.

"If he wants to file a claim for workman's compensation, he belongs in Harrisburg, Pa., not Columbus," John Goodrich, chief of the division, remarked.

WANTS CONCERTS IN SHIPYARDS

PORTLAND, Ore. —(UP)— Putting the country's musicians to work in the shipyards here is the task undertaken by Dr. S. Stephenson Smith, ASCAP educational director and prime mover in a music for victory program throughout the nation.

According to Dr. Smith, noon hour and swing shift concerts of classic and popular music by the best local talent have been successful in war plants in the east. Now is the time, Smith declares, to have musicians play during recognized "fatigue periods" to give union-sponsored pep concerts.

LEAVES COLLEGE

WOOSTER—(INS)—Resigning to be commissioned as an assistant surgeon in the United States Public Health Reserve, Dr George W. Jacoby, jr., will leave the College of Wooster this fall.

GRAB GRAPES

ONTARIO, Cal. —(UP)— Vineyardists here who were clamoring for grape pickers wondered if they had over-stepped the mark when they found two huge elephants in their 5,000-acre vineyard eating all the grapes in sight with great gusto.

It was discovered that they had wandered in from a passing circus, were worth $10,000 each. The owners paid for 40 huge vines that were stripped of grapes and damaged.

FRENCH SCIENCE TRAILING U. S. BY FIVE YEARS

By HERBERT G. KING
(UP Staff Correspondent)

VICHY—(U.P.)—France, once one of the world's leaders in science, is five years behind the United States in scientific progress because of the war.

Optical grinders have turned from the manufacture of microscopes to range-finders; glaziers have little time to make test tubes and high grade steel is required for less humane instruments than surgical tools.

"As a result of the war," Dr. Pierre Lecomte du Nouy, director at L'Ecole de Hautes Etudes of the Paris Sorbonne, said, "and of the impossibility of maintaining communications between bodies of research throughout the world, European — and specifically French—science is five years behind what is being done in the United States."

Dr. du Nouy, a director of the Pasteur Institute and a former member of the Rockefeller Foundation declared it is almost impossible to do constructive research under existing European conditions.

"Laboratory work has become unbelievably difficult," he said. "In a general way, glassware, without which we can do nothing, is almost unobtainable. Why, we were recently unable to obtain delivery of some anti-typhus serum from our laboratory in Algiers because we could not get the special bottles needed for its transport."

Specialized instruments are scarce because of metal shortages. Optical precision instruments no longer can be manufactured in France and orders to German manufacturers—once the world's best—are delayed two years with no guarantee of delivery.

Physicians are hampered by a shortage of vaseline for dressing wounds. A crude oil synthetic substitute has been developed but several deaths have been reported from its use.

French drug firms may no longer manufacture tincture of iodine because German medical authorities oppose its use. Instead they use mercurochrome. The ingredients of aspirin are exhausted in France — only that marketed by the German I. G. Farbenindustrie can be obtained. Even the favored French eau de cologne is missing from shop windows.

Survivors From Sunken Lexington Form Unique Club

MIAMI, Fla.—(INS)—The gallant stand of the U. S. S. Lexington, American aircraft carrier lost in the battle of the Coral sea, will be perpetuated in the memory of the men who sailed on her through an unique club formed by bluejackets at the navy's new subchaser school in Miami.

Known as the Shipwrecked Sailors of the South Seas, the association's only members will be survivors of the famous Lexington.

Four charter members who received scrolls recently in Miami were Moses J. Ellison, gunner's mate from Montgomery, Ala.; William C. Barney, seaman of Parsons, Kan.; Grafton C. Thornton, boatswain's mate from McCrory, Ark.; and Virgil L. Chapman, first class gunner's mate from Denver.

These and other members of the Lexington's crew are now in training for other jobs for the navy, and hope for a chance to be assigned to the navy's newest Lexington recently launched in Boston.

WOMEN BUILD WOODEN PIPE

LONGVIEW Wash. — (UP) — War's impact on the lumber industry is shown in one section of the Long Bell Lumber company here where women—doing the work of men who joined the armed forces—fabricated huge wooden pipe to replace steel.

MARKET RALLY EXTENDED IN EARLY TRADING

Upward Spurt Suspended For Thursday Daylight Air Raid Experiment.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — The late stock market rally of Thursday, interrupted by the half-hour air-raid test suspension, was extended in today's early dealing by fractions.

On the upside at an active opening were Goodyear, Du Pont, U S. Steel, Anaconda, Chrysler and U. S. Rubber.

Those with merchandising shares noted the Dun & Bradstreet survey which said that, while unfavorable weather in many sections exerted an adverse influence on retail spending this week's dollar volume for the country as a whole topped the comparable period last year by 5 to 9 per cent.

Studied also was the federal reserve summary estimating the nation's department store sales for the week ended Oct 17 exceeded those of the same week in 1941 by 16 per cent.

IT WILL TAKE LOTS OF PAPER

Eight Billion Pieces of Printed Matter Used in Gas Rationing.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — It will take 8,000,000 separate pieces of printed matter using 15,000 000 pounds of paper and costing $3,-000,000, to put nation-wide gasoline rationing into effect next month

Leigh S Plummer, press and campaign director for OPA's department of information, gave out these figures last night and predicted that price controls would disappear "within a reasonable time after the war"

EXTENDS 'SHARE SURPLUS' ORDER

Herbert Rules Defense Council Can Take Water Works Material

COLUMBUS — (UP) — The state council of defense today had authority to requisition surplus materials of one public water works system and turn them over to another municipality facing shutdown of a war industry because of a water supply breakdown under a ruling of Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert.

The ruling was in line with an earlier opinion authorizing the council to requisition privately owned fire-fighting equipment or facilities of a municipal fire department in case of large fires or enemy action threatening war industries.

PREDICT MEAT BOOTLEGGERS

Restaurant Owners Urge Meatless Days Instead of Rationing.

NEWARK, N J —(INS)— Hotel and restaurant owners in New Jersey prefer a meatless day weekly to meat rationing in public eating places

Rationing, they fear, will promote the meat "speakeasy" with steak-loving patrons knocking on side doors saying that "Joe, send me"

Everyone would be willing to abstain from meat one day a week, the restaurant men pointed out, but continued short rations might lead to abuses.

SPEED TEEN-AGE DRAFT MEASURE

other amendments could be beaten and the bill passed by nightfall. The house approved a similar measure, without any restrictions, last Saturday.

Senator Thomas (R., Idaho) has proposed a year's training, despite the appeal of military leaders that they be left free in assigning the new men to units. There was some talk of halving this proposed time as a compromise.

A half dozen other amendments also were pending as the second day on debate opened but sponsors of the measure, including its author, Senator Gurney (R., S. D.), said they believed most of them could be defeated easily.

Senator Taft, away on a speaking tour, proposed through Senator Danaher, (R, Conn) that students in college or professional schools who fell within the proposed new 18-19 age group be deferred while they completed training for essential military or civilian activities.

Senator Nye (R., N. D.) sought to exempt selectees under 20 from combat service unless they volunteered for it and Senator Capper (R., Kan.) planned an amendment to keep all of this group in noncombatant units until they reached 20.

Asks 57-Hour Work Week, No Overtime

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Chairman Reynolds (D, N. C) of the senate military committee today advocated boosting the standard work week to 57 hours and eliminating premium pay for overtime as an immediate solution for labor shortages.

He added that a good many manhours could be saved by eliminating strikes, but did not suggest how they would be eliminated

Shortly after Reynolds was interviewed, the committee, absorbed in the 'teen-age draft bill debate on the senate floor, decided to postpone until Monday its questioning of high government officials on the need for national service legislation Secretary of War Stimson was listed as the headliner among next week's witnesses

He told an interviewer "We should take into consideration the availability of the manpower already here and the possibility of working longer hours.

"If we want to solve the manpower problem immediately, we can increase the 40 hour week to 56 or 57 hours and eliminate time-and-a-half and double time for overtime.

"I say 57 hours because Great Britain is working 57 Germany is working 60 and Japan 70."

Although Chairman Paul V. McNutt of the war manpower commission testified Wednesday that "we must not stop short of compulsion" to keep war production going, Reynolds said he feared any compulsory national service legislation would have a bad effect on the morale of workers and their families

"It would uproot them from their homes and jam the overburdened railroads to move thousands of people from one part of the country to another," he said.

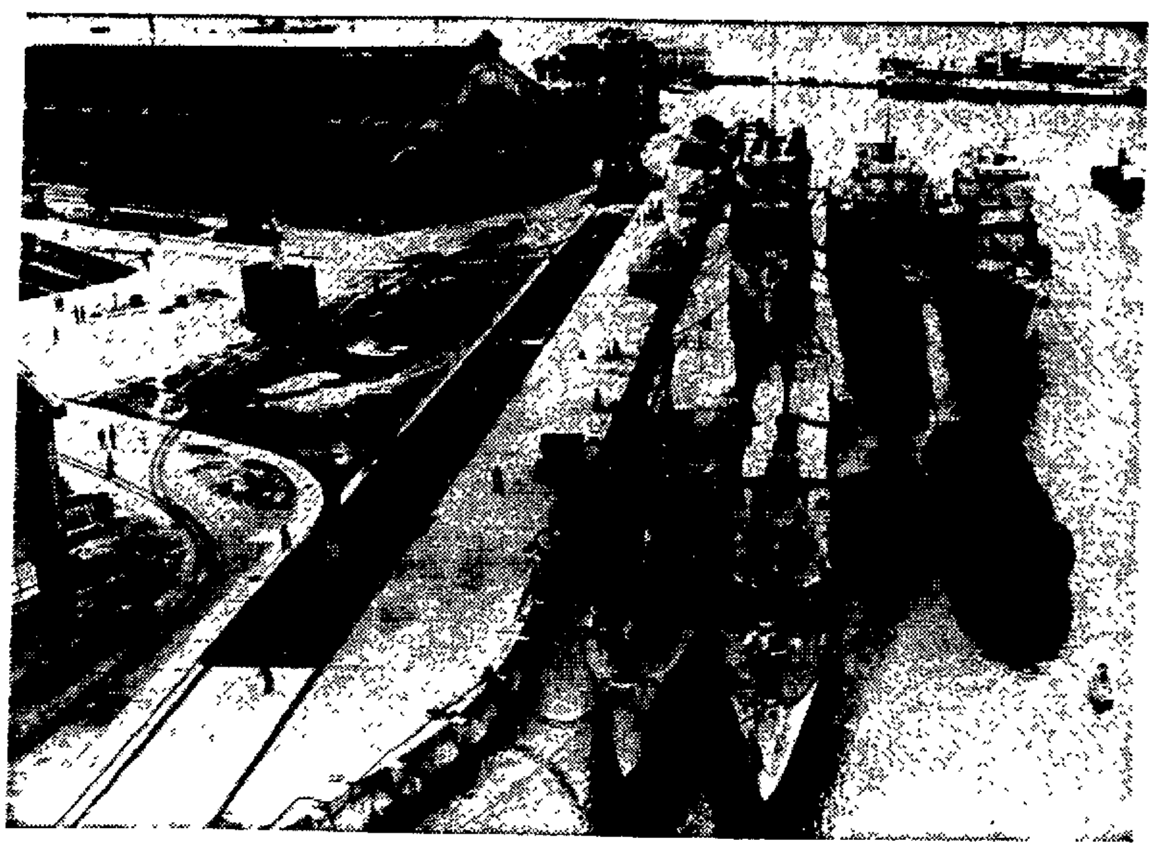
Brazil Expands Navy for Anti-Sub War



A large part of the anti-submarine warfare in the waters off South America has been taken over by Brazil. Brazilian shipyards, like this one in Rio de Janeiro, are working at top speed to turn out vessels for convoy and patrol duty. The three destroyers in the rear are of U. S design but were built in Brazil. Two old type torpedo boats (foreground) are being modernized.

PREHISTORIC MAP PREPARED

Ohio Professor Pictures South America as Three Continents.

CINCINNATI — (INS) — There were once three South American continents instead of one, in the opinion of a University of Cincinnati paleogeographer.

After a five-year study, Dr Kenneth E. Caster, professor of geology at the university, has produced a map which is believed to be the first complete picture of the face of South America as it appeared some 250 to 300 million years ago.

In that era, great seas covered South America in the region now marked by the Andean mountains and spread widely across southern Brazil and the Amazon valley.

Instead of one immense triangular land mass as it is now, South America was then made up of three great land masses separated by wide seas. Dr. Caster's map shows these ancient continental areas extending far into the regions now the Atlantic and Pacific oceans and Caribbean sea.

Dr. Caster also believes that seas covered large areas of South America for hundreds of millions of years and that the present aspect of the continent came into being only a few tens of thousands of years ago—just a matter of a few yesterdays in geologic time.

THEATERS

Skelton Again.

Red Skelton, the former Mansfielder, continues his soar in the cinema heavens in "Panama Hattie," film adaptation of the pretentious Broadway musical show, opening Saturday at the Ohio. As a sailor sworn to protect Ann Sothern in the title role of "Panama Hattie," a night club singer loved by all who know her, Skelton is aided by two fellow comedians, Rags Ragland and Ben Blue. Lavish production numbers of the South American type fill the musical that also features Lena Horne, colored singer, and the Berry Brothers, dancers.

Ginger Masquerades

Ginger Rogers masquerades through "The Major and the Minor," Madison comedy attraction opening Saturday, as a 12-year old. She plays a small-town girl who tires of New York and wants to get back home but doesn't have the carfare. So she poses as a minor and buys a half-fare ticket. The train ride is eventful particularly after she "crashes" the compartment of Ray Milland, a major with an eye defect. Robert Benchley, Rita Johnson and Ginger's own mother, Lela Rogers, appear in the production. "Apache Trail," with William Lundigan is the co-feature.

* *

Dramatic Story.

Jean Gabin, who spent much of his life along the waterfronts of his native France, has a role in "Moontide," the Ritz headline, that is almost a "natural" for him. Gabin appears as a romantic adventure-seeking dock worker along the Pacific waterfront with Ida Lupino as leading lady. Adapted from a best-selling story by Willard Robertson the picture also presents Claude Rains and Thomas Mitchell. "Where Trails End," is the second picture.

* * *

Crime Thriller.

A chain of criminal circumstances is untangled by a slick detective, Ellery Queen, in the Park attraction, "A Close Call for Ellery Queen." The story revolves around a retired millionaire whose efforts to locate two long-lost daughters are complicated by the presence of blackmailers from his unsavory past. William Gargan as Ellery Queen is called upon to solve the mystery. Margaret Lindsay and Charles Grapewin are in the cast. "King of the Stallions," featuring several tribes of American Indians, is the co-feature.

If you've turned in all your scrap --- good work! You've got the thanks of the boys at the front. But don't stop there. From now on be a scrap spotter. Whenever you see a lot of scrap metal that ought to be put into the fight --- report it!

ONE OF THESE COUPONS MAY WIN A BATTLE

Remember, the need for scrap won't end until the war does. And the war can't end our way if steel mills shut down. So keep scrap on your mind constantly — when you're walking — when you're riding — when you're working.

Watch for metal that isn't being used. Keep an eye out for abandoned machinery and structures. Nothing is too big to be broken up and carted away. And nothing is too small to save a fighting man's life!

Report the things you find and we'll contact the proper authorities. Whether it's a wrecked car rusting in the weeds—an old, unused bridge—or a forgotten saw mill . . we want to hear about it. Never mind what it will cost to get it out, we'll get things moving — because our soldiers need that metal!

Isn't it little enough to ask? While our boys are hunting Japs and Nazis, will you balk at hunting up the scrap that will help them win their fight? While they are giving their lives, will you hesitate to give a little time and thought to this problem?

Make it a point of honor to find and report unused metal. Carry these coupons in your purse or wallet. Then when you spot idle metal, fill one out and send it in to this newspaper.

Get going and keep looking. A life may well depend on your sharp eyes!

Church Marks Centennial

Celebrating the centennial of its founding and homecoming, congregation members of the St. John Evangelical Lutheran church in Perrysville will observe the day Sunday with a picnic dinner at noon followed by a special worship service at 2 p. m. to be conducted by guest pastor, Rev. D. Bruce Young, of the First Lutheran church in Shelby.

Six years ago the rural St. John's church and the Grace Lutheran church at Perrysville merged to form one organization and in 1937 erected the new building (top picture) on the site of the Grace church.

Rev. George M. Schrack, (lower picture) pastor of the present church starts in on his 18th year of service at St. Johns where he began his pastorate duties. A native of Richland county, Rev. Schrack is a graduate of Oberlin college and Moody institute in Chicago.

Several relatives of the 19 charter members from the rural church are expected to be present for the services along with ministers from neighborhood churches.

GRAB GRAPES

ONTARIO, Cal. —(UP)— Vineyardists here who were clamoring for grape pickers wondered if they had over-stepped the mark when they found two huge elephants in their 5,000-acre vineyard eating all the grapes in sight with great gusto.

It was discovered that they had wandered in from a passing circus, were worth $10,000 each. The owners paid for 40 huge vines that were stripped of grapes and damaged.

PAYS CALL

Pigeon Moves in on Ohio's Industrial Claims Office.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—A Pennsylvania carrier pigeon called on the claims division of the industrial commission in the state office building recently, and liked the place so well he refused to go home.

The pigeon flew into the office, made himself at home and when someone put him out a window he flew around a while and came right back. Through bands on his legs, the pigeon was identified as belonging to A. R. Sourilliard, of Allentown, Pa.

"If he wants to file a claim for workman's compensation, he belongs in Harrisburg, Pa., not Columbus," John Goodrich, chief of the division, remarked.

WANTS CONCERTS IN SHIPYARDS

PORTLAND, Ore. —(UP)— Putting the country's musicians to work in the shipyards here is the task undertaken by Dr. S. Stephenson Smith, ASCAP educational director and prime mover in a music for victory program throughout the nation.

According to Dr. Smith, noon hour and swing shift concerts of classic and popular music by the best local talent have been successful in war plants in the east. Now is the time, Smith declares, to have musicians play during recognized "fatigue periods" to give union-sponsored pep concerts.

LEAVES COLLEGE

WOOSTER—(INS)—Resigning to be commissioned as an assistant surgeon in the United States Public Health Reserve, Dr. George W. Jacoby, jr., will leave the College of Wooster this fall.

FRENCH SCIENCE TRAILING U. S. BY FIVE YEARS

By HERBERT G. KING
(UP Staff Correspondent)

VICHY—(UP)—France, once one of the world's leaders in science, is five years behind the United States in scientific progress because of the war.

Optical grinders have turned from the manufacture of microscopes to range-finders: glaziers have little time to make test tubes and high grade steel is required for less humane instruments than surgical tools.

"As a result of the war," Dr. Pierre Lecomte du Nouy, director at L'Ecole de Hautes Etudes of the Paris Sorbonne, said, "and of the impossibility of maintaining communications between bodies of research throughout the world, European — and specifically French—science is five years behind what is being done in the United States."

Dr. du Nouy, a director of the Pasteur Institute and a former member of the Rockefeller Foundation declared it is almost impossible to do constructive research under existing European conditions.

"Laboratory work has become unbelievably difficult," he said. "In a general way, glassware, without which we can do nothing, is almost unobtainable. Why, we were recently unable to obtain delivery of some anti-typhus serum from our laboratory in Algiers because we could not get the special bottles needed for its transport."

Specialized instruments are scarce because of metal shortages. Optical precision instruments no longer can be manufactured in France and orders to German manufacturers—once the world's best—are delayed two years with no guarantee of delivery.

Physicians are hampered by a shortage of vaseline for dressing wounds. A crude oil synthetic substitute has been developed but several deaths have been reported from its use.

French drug firms may no longer manufacture tincture of iodine because German medical authorities oppose its use. Instead they use mercurochrome. The ingredients of aspirin are exhausted in France — only that marketed by the German I. G. Farbenindustrie can be obtained. Even the favored French eau de cologne is missing from shop windows.

Survivors From Sunken Lexington Form Unique Club

MIAMI, Fla.—(INS)—The gallant stand of the U. S. S. Lexington, American aircraft carrier lost in the battle of the Coral sea, will be perpetuated in the memory of the men who sailed on her through an unique club formed by bluejackets at the navy's new subchaser school in Miami.

Known as the Shipwrecked Sailors of the South Seas, the association's only members will be survivors of the famous Lexington.

Four charter members who received scrolls recently in Miami were Moses J. Ellison, gunner's mate from Montgomery, Ala.; William C. Barney, seaman of Parsons, Kan.; Grafton C. Thornton, boatswain's mate from McCrory, Ark.; and Virgil L. Chapman, first class gunner's mate from Denver.

These and other members of the Lexington's crew are now in training for other jobs for the navy, and hope for a chance to be assigned to the navy's newest Lexington recently launched in Boston.

Books For Children

• • •

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Life in the jungle, the army and in the general everyday world is described in several new books added to the children's department of the Mansfield Public Library.

JAMBA THE ELEPHANT, by Theodore J. Waldeck—Many readers remember the fascinating story of the WHITE PANTHER. The same author has now written the story of an elephant in the same understanding manner. Jamba was trapped and trained as an ebony logger. Bomi was the only trainer who could control Jamba and even he was powerless when Jamba heard the distress signal of another wild elephant.

LORD BADEN-POWELL OF THE BOY SCOUTS, by Howard Fast—The father of scouting for boys was known as "Ste" as a young boy who drew pictures of everything with his left hand. At Charterhouse he was called B. P. and that remained his name to all who loved and honored him during his long service with the British army and afterward when he formulated the principles of the Boy Scout movement. Every Scout should enjoy this book.

CLAIMS DECLINE

Unemployment Benefit Bids Drop 54 Per Cent.

Claims for unemployment benefits in the Mansfield area dropped 54.9 per cent from August to September, according to a report from C. W. Handley, manager of the Mansfield office of the U. S. Employment Service.

The report, based on Richland and Morrow county statistics, was in keeping with improved business conditions in these counties, and throughout the state generally. State claims fell to an all-time low in September.

The number of weeks of unemployment for which benefits were paid in this area during September was 1,064, with benefits totaling $13,110, a decrease of 37.5 from August. The average weekly number of unemployed persons receiving benefits in this area during September was 261.

NASSAU STAMPS OVERPRINT

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

The $64 Questions.

(Are They Bothering You, Too?)

Was that Greta Garbo cheering the bronco busters at the Rodeo the other evening accompanied by two Norwegian fliers? . . . Does Dinah Shore love Jimmy Stewart? . . . What frequently front-paged oil heir is passing bad checks in the better bistros? Is Joe Cook's daughter Doris marrying Jack Harris, not the night club owner? . . .

Kilgallen

Did you know that Charles Chaplin, Jr., always refers to Paulette Goddard as "Angel"? . . . Is Paul Muni going to give the Broadway stage another try? . . . Have you seen the red vest that Monte Carlo's decorator, Franklin Hughes, is sporting? What happened to George Jean Nathan's eye? . . . Did you know that General De Gaulle got $50,000 from Warner Bros. for permission to film his life story, and gave it all to the fighting French?

* * *

Have you heard Anne Shirley's explanation for her new honey-colored hair, and isn't it a honey? . . . Do you know that Jerry Lester, the comedian in "Beat the Band," used to be a ballet dancer? . . . Did you see the double take Veronica Lake gave Billie Raphael (who wears her hair just like La Lake) at the Stork the other midnight? Wouldn't you have loved to eavesdrop on the conversation between Bonnie Edwards and Billie Boze as they bought shoes together at Bonwit's? . . . Isn't it nice to see William A. Brady up and around again and greeting his pals at Duffy's Tavern across from his Playhouse? . . . Did you know that they won't take you up to the Empire State building's observation tower if you're carrying a camera?

* * *

Is Zorina going overseas to entertain the troops? . . . Do you realize that lipstick now plays an important part in first aid? (First aiders write the time of application of tourniquets on the victim's forehead, using lipstick.) . . . Can you name the important producer whose wife came all the way from California to yank him home when she heard what a good time he was having in Gotham - - and do you know she hasn't succeeded yet? . . . Is Mark Hellinger really turning actor? . . . Have you heard Benny Goodman "noodle" on the clarinet for seven full minutes at the New Yorker, with only piano, guitar and drums for background? . . . Wouldn't it be nice if with the shortage of beef there was also a shortage of beefing?

* * *

Is Earl Carroll serious about Beverley Carroll? . . . Isn't Charles Laughton a fiend for getting his fortune told by the seers at the various niteries, and do you think he ever gets the same future twice? . . . Will Irving Berlin play Irving Berlin in the film version of "This Is the Army" or will they get an actor who's more the type? . . . What famous glamor girl is supporting herself by selling her fabulous jewels, one by one - - and how long can it last? . . .

Has Grace Moore changed her plans for a series of operettas and decided to do just one - - a new one - - instead? . . . Is it true that Somerset Maugham is going to lecture at Yale on the subject of what he thinks of the movie adaptations of his books? . . . Do you know that David Lichine, the Rooshian dance director, spends his spare time truckin' at Roseland?

* * *

Do you know that there's been an epidemic of typewriter stealing in Hollywood, where nobody ever used to steal anything but the other fellow's girl? . . . Have you heard that young millionaire Jack Topping has shed 40 pounds so he could meet the Army's requirements - - which is more than he ever did for a dream gal? . . . Are you aware that Dorothy Jeffers, the Latin Quarter beauty, is a cousin of William Jeffers, the rubber czar? . . . Did you read about the non-dancing actresses being considered for the name role in the picture "The Life of Marylin Miller," and isn't that silly? . . . Isn't the feud between Variety and J. J. Shubert a scream? . . . Do you know that castor oil will soon be on the priority lists - - and aren't you delighted?

* * *

Do you know that the next surrealist painting by Dali to be published in a national magazine will have an accompanying art critique by Raymond Gram Swing? . . . Have you heard about Frank Buck being so attractive in a small part in "Jacare" that he's been signed to play the male lead in a full-lengther? . . . Do you know where Vernon MacFarlane's new "Victory Bar" is located? . .

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

(One of a series by Robbin Coons, who is touring the U. S.)

NEW YORK—The curtain rises . . . and there you are, back in Hollywood again. The same faces, most of them, you've seen back on the sound stages at one time or another. They're achieving the eternally voiced hope of most movie people: they're "doing a play" again.

Coons

Some of them are doing plays that are already headed for pictures. Some are doing plays that have already become pictures—like "Arsenic and Old Lace" which was finished in Hollywood these many months but has not yet seen the projection lights.

There are even a couple of offerings that "tried out" in Hollywood. There's "Angel Street," the chiller with Vincent Price as one of those evil husbands, and George Jessel and Jack Haley have brought in their "Show Time" variety to good reception.

* * *

"STAR and Garter" rates as a hit, too, but you won't be seeing it on the screen unless in name only. It's burleycue, serving its cup of rabaldry via Gypsy Rose Lee and Bobby Clark.

Emlyn Williams' short-lived drama, "The Morning Star," illustrated a common difference in Broadway and Hollywood casting. Gladys Cooper, who plays supporting character roles in films, got her name in dimmed-out lights here, and Wendy Barrie, who has starred in Hollywood, got no marquee mention. . . . Wendy, new to the stage, did a convincing trick as a wily meanie. The boy of this piece, Gregory Peck, looks like a good bet for pictures.

* * *

RAY BOLGER is back in his element after several pictures, enlivening "By Jupiter." Odd about this one: they say it's too rough for filming, but it's the same story (with Rodgers and Hart music now) that was filmed from the play, "The Warrior's Husband." But the movie code has stiffened considerably since those days.

In the list of current plays there's scarcely one that doesn't feature one or two movie-familiar names. Constance Moore is getting some stage training — and nice—with Bolger's show. Joseph Schildkraut is co-starring with Eva LeGallienne in "Uncle Harry," and Harry Richman, Bert Wheeler and Carol Bruce have shaken Hollywood temporarily for their "New Priorities of 1943," another vaudeville show.

Miss Marilou Sowash being admitted to membership in Alpha Omega, women's social sorority at Kent State university. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sowash, 142 Dawson avenue . . . David Talbot, son of Lieut. Commander and Mrs. D. R. Talbot, 720 Woodhall road, being chosen to serve on the news staff of the Wooster Voice, college student weekly.

* * *

Two-year-old Harriet Ann Friday happily surprised with a little birthday cake and two lighted candles, a gift from the Mansfield-Leland hotel where Dr. and Mrs. Karl Borsak of Fond du Lac, Wis., entertained in the youngster's honor last night . . . Albert Arnold, Civic Music association president, writing friends from an army camp in California that he wants a photograph of the Salzedo ensemble autographed when the musicians appear in concert here Monday night.

Christ Marinis learning from specialists that it won't be too long before the injured vertebrae in his neck will be all right again. . . . Cadets from the airport having a fast game of ping-pong in the new USO room. . . . Veldo German of the Y. M. C. A. watching people on Park avenue west chase their hats carried away by the wind. . . . Bill Ingram sliding in the rain while riding his bike.

* * *

HERE'S HOW TO GET ALONG ON MEAT RATION

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—You too can be happy on 2½ pounds of meat a week.

An agriculture department lesson in home economics was the latest development today on the food front.

Secretary Wickard's agency proceeded to demonstrate, through the medium of sample menus, how many a perplexed patriotic meal planner can get by under the government's voluntary share-the-meat program.

There was also other food news:

1. OPA slapped dollars-and-cents price ceilings on pork at the wholesale and packer level to make sure that housewives throughout the country get their fair share of this important meat item.

2. OPA and the agriculture department announced a program to prevent increases in the price of bread and flour.

The bureau of home economics offered a seven-day menu for a family of two adults, a child of 13 and a child of 9, staying within the limit, the week's menu calls for one pound of ground beef; one pound of bacon or ham, four pounds of lamb; one pound of chops; two pounds of spare ribs, and four pounds of chicken.

It's split up thusly:

Monday dinner — meat balls or meat loaf; Tuesday lunch—bacon or ham; Wednesday dinner—roast lamb; Thursday lunch—hot lamb sandwich; Thursday dinner — braised chops; Friday dinner — roast spareribs; Saturday dinner—baked beans with thin slices of bacon; Sunday breakfast—bacon or ham; Sunday dinner—baked chicken.

OPA officials said the specific wholesale pork price ceilings will eliminate existing inequalities under the order which set ceilings at the individual seller's prices during the period March 3-7.

With ceilings equalized throughout the nation, pork will flow into all communities. Under the old system, the city with the highest price ceiling usually had plenty of pork available, while a neighboring area with a low ceiling price got none.

FUND TO REACH $300,000,000

BUC Head Says It Will Care For Soldier Claims Following War.

COLUMBUS — Administrator H. C. Atkinson estimated today the state bureau of unemployment compensation's benefit fund would reach $300,000,000 next year, adequate to aid Ohioans encountering occupational difficulties upon returning from the nation's services after the war.

The bureau is "freezing" wage records of persons in service until after the war, Atkinson explained. Ordinarily they are kept only about two years.

Under Ohio law, an honorable discharge makes persons in service eligible for unemployment compensation benefits, now ranging from $5 to $16 weekly for a minimum of 18 weeks.

The administrator said the bureau was seeking from about 56,000 Ohio employers the names and social security numbers of all workers in service eligible for benefits.

Atkinson said the benefit fund now exceeded $250,000,000 and would be more than $275,000,000 by next Jan. 1 and $300,000,000 by the end of 1943.

"It is ample to meet any contingency that might arise, as long as this fund is restricted to use of Ohioans," Atkinson asserted

ILLNESS OF 2 MONTHS FATAL

Anthony Sutter, 82, Succumbs Near North Auburn.

SHELBY—Anthony Sutter, 82, life-long resident of the Shelby community, died Thursday night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Clem Ault, near North Auburn. He had been at her home for the past two months.

The body was removed to the Barkdull funeral home in Shelby. Funeral services will be conducted Monday morning at the Most Pure Heart of Mary Catholic church with Rev. Michael A. McFadden officiating. Burial will be in the Shelby Settlement cemetery.

Surviving, besides the daughter, Mrs. Ault, are three sons, Albert and Clarence of the Shelby settlement, and Gusite of Shelby; 13 grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren.

DENIES CHARGE

Butler Resident Pleads Not Guilty In Accident Case.

Charles R. Rinehart, Butler old age pensioner, was arraigned in municipal court today on the charge of unsafe operation of a motor vehicle, filed by Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals acting on a report to Motorcycle Patrolman Robert Robnolte.

Rinehart pleaded not guilty and Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch set his trial for Oct. 29. According to police Rinehart's auto ran down Mrs. Marie Johnston, 126 Glenwood Heights, at Mulberry and Second streets, Tuesday afternoon.

DEFERMENT URGED

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Induction deferment for full-time farm workers because of agricultural labor shortages was requested by the Ohio Farm bureau in a resolution adopted by its trustees, executive secretary Murray D. Lincoln reported.

BRICKER ASKS VOTERS SHARE RIDES TO GET TO POLLS NOV. 3

(By Associated Press)

STEUBENVILLE — Citing apathy of voters towards the coming election, Gov. John W. Bricker called on Ohioans to adopt the "share the ride" plan for motorists to get electors to the polls Nov. 3.

"There is a very real danger that many voters will not go to the polls because of their patriotic desire to save gasoline and rubber," Bricker said here last night in a state-wide radio broadcast to Republican rallies in Ohio's more than 8800 precincts. The governor is seeking a third term.

"You can get them to the polls without difficulty if you will remind them that it is also their patriotic duty to vote, and if you will help provide means of transportation on a neighborhood 'share the ride' principle. . . .

"What are we fighting this war for, if it is not to preserve the freedom of the ballot box and the right of self-government which it represents?

"It would be a cruel tragedy if, having won the battle of freedom at the far outposts of the earth, our sons were to return to a nation in which the fountainhead of freedom had run dry."

At nearby East Liverpool, U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft, Cincinnati Republican, told a Kiwanis club meeting that congress would enact a federal sales tax should treasury Secretary Morgenthau seek an additional six billion dollors in wartime revenue.

Taft asserted a 10 per cent increse in prices could be expected annually because of war conditions and a mounting federal debt. He estimated the national debt would reach 200 billions by mid-1944.

DIES AT AGE 70

C. W. Strippy Stricken While Sitting at Hotel Window.

Suffering a heart attack, Charles W. Strippy, 70, retired railroad worker, died while sitting by a window yesterday afternoon at the T and A hotel where he had made his home several years.

Dr. Lewis B. McCullough, county coroner, returned a verdict of death due to coronary thrombosis.

Mr. Strippy was born in Wellsville Oct. 23, 1872. He had been employed as a boiler maker in railroad shops for many years.

Surviving are a son, Private Charles V. Strippy, jr., of Camp Barkley, Texas, and a sister, Mrs. Maude Resch, Galion. The body is at the Jones Memorial pending funeral arrangements.

MOTHER DIES

Mrs. Emma Bauer Was Parent of Mrs. Arthur Glattke.

Mrs. Emma Bauer, mother of Mrs. Arthur L. Glattke, wife of the Ohio State reformatory superintendent, died last night at her home, 1814 Locust street, in Toledo.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

NEW TYPHOID CASE REPORTED

Although only one new case was reported today, for a total of 21 typhoid fever victims in the Ontario region, Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health department commissioner, was reticent in announcing the threatened epidemic under control.

No laboratory tests on water well and milk supply samples were received from the state department of health. The Springfield township centralized school water supply was pronounced satisfactory yesterday following rigid tests.

There were 277 pupils of the school who yesterday received their second typhoid immunization treatment. Many others are continuing their "triple shot" treatments by their family physicians in their homes, Dr. Wild was informed.

Up and Down THE STREET

Butler school today welcomed former pupils at their annual Homecoming celebration featuring a parade, crowning of a queen, a football game and a Mardi Gras carnival. A parade starting at 2:30 p. m. was to lead to the football field where Miss Eldora Lofquist, a senior, was to be crowned queen of the festivities. She was to respond to an address of welcome by Superintendent R. C. Rehard preceding the game with Bellville, an old rival. At the carnival this evening, various prizes will be awarded for the outstanding costumes.

In a final effort to obtain addresses of men and women in service before Oct 27, so that they may receive Christmas cards, the Richland Victory Civic committee has set up a station in the Mansfield postoffice where representatives from the Navy Mothers, Blue Star Mothers and Colony clubs are registering names. Although the address drive was started Oct. 14 only 250 out of a possible 1,500 to 1,800 addresses were received, Earl Saltzgaber, chairman of the victory committee said. Yesterday the table in the postoffice was set up and women registrars are there until 6 p. m.

Richland county big game hunters may have to go elsewhere to shoot their prey but they don't have to get very far from home to see it. Three large deer were seen leisurely grazing in a pasture a short distance from where state highway employes were working on State Route 30 yesterday, George Beck reported. Frightened by the workmen, they jumped a fence and disappeared but were sighted again later in the day in a nearby pasture.

Red Cross executives are frequently baffled by some requests but one received today by the home service department has the staff stopped completely. It was made in a letter by a soldier in California who wants to locate a young lady. The request reads as follows: "Will you please try to locate Miss Margritt Tims last seen in Chicago boarding a bus to go to Mansfield, O. She was last seen in October, 1940."

ON COMMITTEE

Honor Group Named For 18-20 Army Recruiting Drive.

For the visit here today and tomorrow of the U. S. Army recruiting caravan an honorary committee is announced to direct the local cooperation with the 'teen-age manpower campaign.

Mayor W. J. Locke, Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals, Postmaster H. E. Homberger, President James E. Eberly of the Junior Association of Commerce, Commander C. O. Lister, of McVey post of the American Legion, Commander C. L. Myers, of the Veterans of Foreign Wars post, and Commander Russell Moore of the Disabled American Veterans, comprise the honorary group.

Accompanied by a 25-piece band and commanded by Capt. T. J. Childress, members of the caravan will interview youths of the 18-20-year-old category about branches of the Army they may enlist in. Two officers of the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps will interview possible recruits for the WAACS.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. KNAPP, 82

Native of England Dies at Home In Ashland.

ASHLAND—Mrs. Sadie Knapp, 82, born in London, England, died at her home last evening following a five-week illness. She was a resident of Ashland county for 72 years.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. D. P. Marble, Mrs. Ray Arnold, Mrs. Lucy McDowell all of Ashland, Mrs. Thomas Workman, Ramkin, Tex., and one son, Floyd L. of Akron. Mrs. Knapp was a member of the Church of Christ, missionary society and Century Sunday school class.

The body was removed from the Denbow-Bear funeral home to her home this morning. Services will be Saturday at 2 p. m., in the Church of Christ by Rev. Frank W. Brown and burial will be in Ashland cemetery.

Accidents Injure Four Others During Blackout.

KINGSTON, N. Y.—(AP)—Four persons died, including two air raid wardens who were speeding to their posts, and four others were injured in a head-on automobile crash last night during a surprise blackout.

AUTHORITIES DOUBT THEFT WAS MOTIVE

Son Discovers Body of Mother and Maid in Living Room of Illinois Home.

(By International News Service)

EVANSTON, Ill. — Authorities sought clues today in a mysterious double murder in which one of the victims was Mrs. Lillian Galvin, 47, wife of Paul V. Galvin, a leading radio manufacturer and a dollar-a-year man with the war production board.

The bodies of Mrs. Galvin and her maid, Miss Edna Sibilski, 28, were found in the living room of the palatial Galvin home in Evanston by Robert Galvin, 20, the son, when he returned home last night.

Investigators said each woman was shot once beneath the heart with a .45 caliber automatic pistol, Mrs. Galvin apparently as she sat at her desk. She was in a negligee and her body had fallen to the floor beside a chair in front of the desk.

The body of the maid was nearby lying against the wall. The coroner's physician said the women had been dead since between 12 and 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Blood was spattered on a window and the venetian blinds in the living room, but police said there were no signs of a struggle.

Capt. Daniel Gilbert of the state's attorney's office, a friend of the Galvins, said a valuable diamond ring of Mrs. Galvin was missing, but that the house had not been ransacked.

Galvin, president of the Galvin Manufacturing company, manufactures of Motorola automobile and home radios, was on his way home from Washington, D. C.

The son, Robert, is a student at a technical school preparing for enlistment in the navy. He said he had just returned from the school when he found the bodies of his mother and the maid and notified Evanston police.

While Mrs. Galvin's diamond was missing, Capt. Gilbert said he was not satisfied that robbery was the sole motive of the double murder.

Neighbors reported they had heard no sounds of the shots, nor any screams. Mrs. Charles Frazier, living nearby, said she had seen a gray four-door sedan parked in front of the Galvin home at about the time police believe the women were killed.

Former City Hall Receptionist Now WAACs Lieutenant

Mansfield has its first commissioned officer in the WAACS in Lieut. Betty May Thompson, former City Hall receptionist, who received her commission with the fifth class of WAAC officer candidates to graduate from Fort Des Moines, Ia.

Lieut. Thompson has been assigned to duties in downtown Des Moines as the instructor of a class of WAAC administrative specialists. She was one of a class of 122 to receive the rank of Third Officer at graduation ceremonies at Fort Des Moines.

Her mother, Mrs. J. K. Thompson, 511 Marion avenue, returned home last night from attending the ceremonies that were prefaced with a dress parade of more than 1,000 WAACS. Lieut. Thompson entered training in August.

Major General Jean Knox, chief of the British Auxiliary Territorial Service, presented the commissions. Col. Oveta Culp Hobby, director of the WAACS, and a number of women officers from the Canadian branch attended the exercises.

In presenting the commissions the British officer charged the graduates to remember that no matter how humble the task they are doing now "it is highly important in winning this great struggle in which our two democracies are engaged."

SOCIETY & CLUBS

MANSFIELD COUPLE MARRIED IN FLORIDA

Exchange Vows In Gainesville on Oct. 17; Bride to Return to Mansfield After Wedding Trip Through South.

A RECENT WEDDING of interest to many Mansfielders is that of Miss Betty Jane Uhlich and Staff Sgt. Bernard Lee Harper, which took place in Gainesville, Fla. The ceremony took place in the First Baptist church on Saturday, Oct. 17, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, with Rev. Thomas McCaul officiating. The church was beautifully decorated with palms, ferns and native orange blossoms and in the background were two seven-branch candelabra. The organist played several selections as well as the traditional wedding marches.

For her bridesmaid Mrs. Harper had her sister Norma Uhlich, and Sgt. Harper's best man was Sgt. Jack Manz. The bride chose a brown street length dress, brown hat with shoulder length veil and brown accessories for her wedding, and three large orchids formed her corsage. Her bridesmaid was also attired in a pecan brown dress with brown accessories, and she wore a corsage of roses and orange blossoms. Mrs. Wade Uhlich, mother of the bride, wore a black silk suit and her accessories were black. Her corsage was also of roses and orange blossoms.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served to 12 guests at the White House hotel. The table was lovely with its white chrysanthemums, tapers and orange blossoms, and an American flag. The bride and bridegroom left later for a wedding trip through Florida For traveling Mrs. Harper chose a navy blue silk suit with wine accessories. Later she will return to Mansfield to make her home with her mother while her husband is stationed at Camp Blanding, Fla.

Sgt. Harper is the son of Mr and Mrs. Herman Harper, 207 South Mulberry street. Both are graduates of Mansfield Senior high school, and upon her return Mrs. Harper will resume her work at the Uhlich Pie bakery.

Business was conducted by Mrs. Regina Gresser. A guest of the club was Mrs J. H. Russell who leaves shortly to join her husband, stationed at Santa Monica, Calif.

Bingo was played and prizes won by Mrs. Shadle, Mrs Adams, and Mrs. Ima Ulmer. Lunch was served from a table which held a large bouquet of mixed chrysanthemums. On Nov. 18 a Thanksgiving dinner will be held at North Lake park.

Salvaged Fabrics Do Their Bit

International Illustrated News Writer.

This fall and winter, thrifty young home dressmakers will want to do their part in helping to achieve victory on the home front by making clothes according to WPB designated fabric and yardage rules.

Both warmth and smartness can be attained at the minimum cost if you'll inaugurate a schedule of home sewing. You'll discover the simple process of reducing the total yardage for a new dresss by making full use of odds-and-ends of contrasting fabric for yokes, sleeves, plastron and panel front trimmings — even to introducing wide hem borders that match colorful collars and cuffs.

Another smart wartime trick that will help you to achieve warmth without wool is quilting made right on your own sewing machine. This patriotic fashion trend of using winter cottons is particularly good news for women who are watching their budgets.

Reversible Skirt.

The quilted costume shown has a reversible dirndl skirt quilted on the right and wrong sides to point up the versatility of this changeable two fabric skirt that can be worn smartly on either side. One fabric is plain to match the vest; the other is printed to provide contrast. If you don't understand quilting you'll be able to master the art in one afternoon at your local sewing center.

Both of the other daytime dresses were made along regulation lines. A minimum of new fabric was used for the smart fall dress with the little Peter Pan collar. It has a sleek fitting bodice and a swirling pocketed skirt. Fabric was conserved in salvaging some old plaid material for the deep-slanting shoulder yoke and full gathered bishop sleeves.

Just a little over two yards of new fabric was used for the bodice and skirt of the third dress. The rest of the dress, including shoulder yokes, sleeves and panel, were whipped up from salvage material. Notice the uninterrupted neckline and shoulder yokes that descend into the narrow front panel. The buttonholes on the waist front closing can be made in a jiffy with the aid of the buttonholer attachment on the sewing machine.

Any patriotic home sewer would be proud to use these fabric saving victory styles when planning a new wardrobe.

Shower Honors Mrs. Harbaugh

A miscellaneous shower was given in honor of Mrs. Robert Harbaugh, nee Helen Bowden, Wednesday night by Doris Simmons. Bridge was in play at three tables and hearts at one. Mrs. Harbaugh received high score and the traveling prizes went to Mrs. Harry Simmons and Mrs. Lionel Culp.

Crystal and white appointments were used most effectively on a large table from which lunch was served and fall flowers were used throughout the house. The hostess presented the honored guest with a gift of lace.

WAR THEME OF TWO OF NEWEST LIBRARY BOOKS

New York Journalist Writes 'Prelude To Victory,' Gives Two Reasons.

"Prelude to Victory, a new book by James B. Reston, obtainable at the Mansfield Public Library, was written, the author said, "because of a profound conviction and a very real fear."

The Washington correspondent for The New York Times, explained his statement in this way: "The conviction is that we got into this war because we underestimated the price of freedom; the fear is that we shall lose the war unless we clear out of our minds several fundamental illusions which are minimizing our efforts."

"Frontier By Air," by Alice R. Hager, another new title, tells the story of the remarkable pioneering job Brazil is doing in the air and of how it has taken to wings to conquer its vast and picturesque wilderness The book, illustrated with 64 pages of photographs, is stirring adventure plus a sound contribution to the understanding of the development of an increasingly important nation.

AND THERE WERE MEN by Russell Blankenship is a lively and entertaining book about the Pacific Northwest—particularly about the people—the frontiersmen, herders, Indian chiefs missionaries, farmers, prospectors, vigilantes and desperadoes who have given that area its distinctive and fascinating character.

DEAD MEN DO TELL TALES by Khun de Prorok is an informal record of some of the author's experiences and observations as an archaeologist and explorer in North Africa, particularly the country between the Blue Nile and the Red Sea. This is not just a "pick and shovel' book, but it is exciting adventure and sound information concerning the past and present of the fascinating land of the Lion of Judah.

RAF BOMBS HIT GENOA, TURIN IN NIGHT ATTACK

waves, dropping incendiary and high-explosive bombs.

"Casualties are still being counted," the communique said, indicating that the loss of life was heavy.

On the Soviet front, Adolf Hitler's armies suffered jarring new setbacks in the 60-day-old siege of Stalingrad as the Russians announced they had broken up a tank-led Nazi assault on a northwest position in the Don-Volga corridor, and seized the initiative inside the city.

It was the fourth straight day since the last Soviet retreat.

German field headquarters acknowledged that the Red armies were counter-attacking at Stalingrad and sought to distract attention from that bloody graveyard of Nazi hopes by emphasizing gains in the Caucasus.

The Nazi communique said German Alpine troops had driven the Russians from defense-in-depth positions above Tuapse, provisional Red navy base on the Black sea.

Soviet dispatches, however, declared that Russian marines had killed more than 300 Axis troops in a battle in the same general vicinity, southeast of Novorossisk, and killed 150 others in the successful defense of a height.

The Russians further reported they had smashed a Nazi wedge which briefly imperiled their first-line defenses in the Mozdok sector, gateway to the Grozny oil fields, in the central Caucasus.

By all accounts, the picture was brightening rapidly for the defenders of Stalingrad as winter's first snowstorm swirled across the steppes.

Dispatches to Red Star said the Germans were now furiously attempting to fortify positions amid the skeleton ruins of the city, building pillboxes and dugouts and converting wrecked buildings into a defense line.

Red Star declared that the Germans were using 22 divisions totalling about 250,000 men in the siege.

Berlin dispatches reported "mud and water everywhere" along the central and northern sectors of the long battlefront and declared that all except the largest trucks with caterpillar tread were mired.

Winter was reported already gripping the Balkans.

Radio Silence Hints Raid On Europe

LONDON —(AP)— The German-controlled Hilversum radio in The Netherlands went off the air from 1:30 to 3:15 p. m., today, indicating that Allied air raiders were over the continent in a continuation of their daylight raids.

The Hilversum transmitters went silent yesterday while the RAF was attacking the Ruhr and northwest Germany.

Dutch Patriots Defy Nazis, Sink Ship

LONDON —(AP)— Netherlands patriots, defiantly continuing acts of sabotage despite 15 more executions by the Germans, have sunk a fully loaded Nazi ammunition ship on the Rhine, Aneta reported today.

The Netherlands news agency, quoting dispatches by way of Moscow, said the ship was sabotaged near Arnheim, Dutch town on the vital Rhine waterway to Germany.

The sinking occurred at a time when the Germans, harassed by heavy RAF raids on their communications, were reported striving desperately to speed up water-borne traffic through The Netherlands.

It was not disclosed when the ship went down, but Aneta said it occurred after 15 Dutch hostages were arrested last Friday and shot immediately for undisclosed acts of sabotage.

U. S. Planes Again Hit Foe In Desert

CAIRO—(AP)—A United States desert air task force of medium bombers and fighters again hammered enemy landing fields yesterday, scoring at least two direct hits among grounded Axis planes, United States headquarters announced today.

An RAF communique said that British fighter planes shot down six Axis aircraft—to which United States fighters added a seventh—over the Egyptian battlefront yesterday, and many more were destroyed in bombing attacks on Axis airdromes.

United States fighters and fighter-bombers also destroyed several enemy vehicles in attacks on transport along desert roads.

In addition, the British bulletin said, four enemy raiders were shot out of the sky over Malta.

Reports French Mass Planes at Dakar

LONDON — (U.P.) —Two French officers, just arrived from Vichy territory, said today that France has massed at Dakar 500 of the 700 planes it had in Africa.

The officers estimated that the French had about 30,000 regular troops available in Morocco and some 40,000 native troops.

The bulk of the French naval strength in Africa has been gathered at Dakar, the officers reported.

(A dispatch from Dakar earlier this week indicated that French army and navy forces at the West African port now number about 50,000 men).

Casablanca, key to the French position in Morocco, was said by the officers to be garrisoned by a force of about 4,000. Troops there were said to have virtually no artillery and no tanks.

NEW YORK —(AP)— The nation's tea drinkers will have to get along with about 35 per cent less tea next year than was used during 1941, Benjamin Wood, managing director of the tea bureau, announced yesterday.

He said 65,000,000 pounds would be allocated to the United States for the year under a pact with the British.

County-wide tire inspection—Porter, Stottler, Thoma, Hoover and Berkey.

Announcement was made today that the government's plan to provide tires for all motorists—but on a rigidly controlled basis—probably will be made known by Nov. 15.

The program, predicated on the reduction of driving to little more than is absolutely essential, will be made possible by the increase in production of re-processed or reclaimed rubber casings.

CHANGE TANK, PLANE PLANS

make steel and other vital materials available for essential munitions.

One of the war producton conferences was scheduled this morning, when Mr. Roosevelt called in the secretaries of war and navy; Admiral William D. Leahy, his personal chief of staff; General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff; Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the navy; Admirals Emory S. Land and Howard L. Vickery and Lewis O. Douglas, of the maritime commission; War Production Chairman Donald M. Nelson; and Harry L. Hopkins, American chairman of the British-American munitions assignment board.

The president said they expected to discuss general production problems and further limitation on luxury goods.

One thing we should always remember, Mr. Roosevelt asserted, is that war changes plans.

A year ago, he said, the government made recommendations for what it considered the necessary munitions, using as a guide the experience of other nations during two years of war. But in another year, he said, those goals were changed because of further experience.

He mentioned tanks, for example. A year ago, he said, the government had scheduled a large production of medium M-3 tanks. But experience in warfare, particularly in the Libyan area since last January, led to a changeover to the new M-4, a larger tank.

FIRE HITS SHIP

Blaze Sweeps U. S. Vessel as It Undergoes Repairs.

BALTIMORE—(AP)—Fire swept through the hospital area of a United States ship undergoing repairs here early today, and the vessel was left listing "very slightly" from tons of water poured on the blaze.

Identity of the ship was not disclosed by the army, and cause of the blaze, confined to one compartment, was not officially announced.

TRAINS POLICE

Institute Will Instruct Ohio Industrial Guards.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— A "plant protection institute" will be conducted by the state highway patrol here Oct. 26-30 for industrial police of seven central Ohio cities.

Sixty-five representatives from Mount Vernon, Delaware, Newark, Lancaster, Circleville, Springfield and Marion are expected to attend. The school will stress protection of factory personnel and property during wartimes.

New Charge Against Flynn

Peggy Larue Satterle (above) night club entertainer, brings a second charge of improper relations against Actor Errol Flynn (inset) in Los Angeles municipal court. She states that Flynn attacked her aboard his yacht 14 months ago, when she was 15 years old. The first charge against Flynn was made by Betty Hansen, a 17-year-old movie-struck waitress from Nebraska, who accused Flynn of attacking her during a house party. The Los Angeles district attorney said that the two separate charges against the actor would be combined into a single court action which will be heard Nov. 2.

All Roads Lead to Stadium For Tyger-Mansfield Game

And Mansfield is not agog over the Tygers' chances. Fans expect a veteran Massillon team to win handily. But Mansfield is still backing its Tygers and hoping that the home team holds the score to some respectable figure, in this case anything under 40 or even 50 points.

A capacity crowd of 8,000 fans, including 1,500 from Massillon, is assured for the big game. A large part of the crowd is being drawn by the opportunity of seeing the famous Massillon band, regarded by many competent critics as the best scholastic musical organization in the country, including college bands.

The excitment gets under way early, at 5:45 p. m. to be exact, when Mansfield high school pupils, including the band, will march from the American Legion home to Central park for a record breaking pep rally. Included in the parade will be an army recruiting band and mobile units.

From there they'll wend their way in a gigantic snake dance out Park avenue west to the Stadium, led by the high school cheer leaders. However, the band, which will have plenty of marching to do at the football field, will not take part in the snake dance.

The army recruiting contingent of 36 soldiers will be special guests of the high school at the game, and during the between-halves intermission a class of navy enlistees from the Mansfield area will be introduced while the crowd gives the pledge to the flag.

Fans will be storming the gates of Stadium field early tonight with a "first come, first served" rule in effect for cinder track seats, bleachers, and standing room ticket holders.

They'll be on hand to see the snake dance enter the stadium gates.

Late bear stories out of Massillon reported two Tiger regulars definitely out of action tonight because of injuries suffered in the Steubenville game last week. They are Fred Cardinal, blocking back, replaced by Dallas Power, and Barney Wallace, left guard, replaced by Bob Williams.

Keve Bray, colored backfield flash, also was reported out because of illness, with Tyre Gibson probably taking his place at right half.

Mansfield Tygers were reported in good physical condition, with the same starting lineup that defeated Springfield last week ticketed for duty on the opening kickoff, scheduled for 8 p. m.

DUCK—KISKA! HERE IT COMES

Millionth Pound Of Bombs Ready To Fall On Jap Base.

Since the middle of June, when aerial attacks began against the Japanese-occupied island, the tempo of bombing, torpedoing and machine gunning has been steadily increasing until now the delivery of 12 tons of bombs daily is not at all unusual.

BLICKLE KILLED

Former OSU Assistant Coach Dies In Accident.

IOWA CITY, Ia. —(AP)— Lieut. John Edward Blickle of Columbus, O., stationed at the navy's pre-flight training school here, was killed last night in an automobile-truck collision, Lieut. Cmdr. Larry Snyder announced today.

Lieutenant Blickle was assistant football and basketball coach at Ohio State university before joining the navy last spring.

1,000 EXPECTED FOR TWO-DAY CIVILIAN PROTECTION SCHOOL

With public officials and civilian defense workers from cities and towns in 14 counties invited, the Purdue-war department civilian protection school here Oct. 31-Nov. 1 is expected to attract upward of 1,000 visitors during the two-day extension course.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, Mansfield's defense co-ordinator, following conferences yesterday with William T. Telzrow, of the fifth region defense office, Cleveland, announced that all civilian defense registrants at the school will receive certificates from the regional office.

Mansfield members of various defense units now in training will receive diplomas for having completed their respective courses on proof of attendance at four of the five sessions, Kalbfleisch said.

Invitations are being sent to Crawford, Huron, Seneca, Wyandot, Marion, Morrow, Knox, Wayne, Lorain, Ashland, Medina and Erie counties. Sessions will be held in Mansfield Senior high school auditorium and stadium. Especial emphasis will be placed on blackout procedure, plant protection, war gases and bombs. An elaborate control center demonstration also will be presented.

Local defense unit leaders, Telzrow told Co-ordinator Kalbfleisch, will be able to arrange conferences with the Purdue-war department faculty members to iron out all problems which have been hampering final organization here.

Obtained solely through the efforts of Judge Kalbfleisch, the school has been pledged the co-operation of the state defense council, according to word from Ralph H. Stone, state director of defense.

concentrations were first observed in the islands a major enemy effort to recapture the airfield, seized by U. S. Marines early in August, had been expected momentarily.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported that United Nations airmen dumped 10 tons of bombs on Japanese ships at Buin, in the northern Solomons, where the enemy had been massing for an all-out assault on Guadalcanal.

So far, the navy declared, U. S. planes and warships have sunk or damaged four Japanese cruisers, nine destroyers and six transports since Oct. 13.

On the New Guinea front, Allied troops driving through heavy tropical rains and over slippery mountain trails were reported to have advanced within nine miles of the Japanese base at Kokoda, at the foot of the Owen Stanley range.

U. S. Bombers Smash Jap-Held Coal Mines

U. S. ARMY AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS, Somewhere in China — (U.P.)— American bombers, carrying out their first attack of the war in north China, have smashed successfully at the big Japanese-controlled Kailan mines, northeast of Tientsin, it was announced today.

Announcement of the American air exploit surprised both Chinese and foreign circles in Chungking who had had no previous indication that U. S. air action was being extended hundreds of miles northward close to the China-Manchurian frontier.

Military sources reported that not a single Japanese plane in the entire occupied area over which the U. S. bombers flew took the air to challenge the American raiders. All the bombers returned safely to their base.

Maj. Gen. Joseph Stilwell's communique said that the attack was carried out Wednesday afternoon.

The mines, operated by the Kailan mining administration, are one of the most important Japanese sources of coal for their large industrial establishments in Manchuria and on the Japanese mainland.

Congress Uneasy at War Developments

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— There is growing uneasiness in congress today over war developments, particularly in the southwest Pacific.

The uneasiness stems primarily from belief that the United States' fighting power is being dissipated by lack of coordination of the land, sea and airforces.

The congressional quarters in which private expressions of concern are becoming more and more frequent are not the type that will produce loose public statements or spectacular demands for overhauling the war effort.

Nor is there any disposition among the uneasy elements to make pre-election political capital of the situation, though they include Republicans as well as the administration's warmest friends in congress.

There is no likelihood of any public development now to indicate the efforts of these congressmen to bring about a correction of what they believe to be the inherent mistakes leading to the present situation. But after the elections there is a good possibility that:

1. President Roosevelt will be urged to make basic changes in the military organizations

2. Failing to get satisfactory action from the White House, certain members of both the senate and house will make a fight to enact legislation abolishing the present army and navy organizations as such and create a single department of defense and a single fighting machine—the armed forces of the United States.

Japs Threaten to Court-Martial Fliers

NEW DELHI, India —(AP)—The Japanese announcement of intentions to court-martial American "bomb-Japan" pilots brought an immediate Japanese language broadcast from the British in India today asserting that "no threats of this sort will have the slightest effect on Allied war strategy nor will Allied pilots take any notice of terrorist methods."

The broadcast demanded that the Japanese supply the location of schools and hospitals so they can be avoided by bomber crews.

ing for substitutes. Some have suggested that the frenzied housewife mix a little toasted bran with the ground berries before brewing as an "extender." Ground parched corn is another suggestion. In Russia, peasants grind together roasted acorns and wheat as the basis of a breakfast brew.

As talk of rationing increased one big dealer suggested every other sugar coupon be good also for coffee until formal rationing books could be issued. The shortage was called partly "temporary" and roasters talked of a probable increase in supplies.

Oliver J. Corbett, secretary of the National Retail Tea and Coffee Merchants association, said in Chicago many packers were trying coffee compounds containing as much as 25 per cent rye, malt, Mexican chick peas, soybeans, barley or other cereal.

Corbett said such adulteration was legal if correctly described on each package.

Coffee importers optimistically cited reports that coffee shipments to this country probably would increase soon with a decline in Atlantic ship sinkings and a potential increase in the number of ships available.

SHE'S 'MAILMAN'

NEW YORK —(INS)— The first woman postman made her appearance in New York City today. She is Mrs. Mabel L. Potter, a negro, and she began work as a special-delivery messenger.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"DO YOU remember, Ronald?" I asked the distraught boy, "that I told you not to judge Carol too harshly? Well, I have just learned that I was right in giving you that warning. She has been most indiscreet, and has a secret she will not reveal and which we all must respect, but we have found out that she has no guilty knowledge of Marion's disappearance, and that her questionable actions were due to the gangster's threats."

"I can't understand how she got in the power of those gangsters," he said, "and you can't realize how glad I am to hear what you've told me."

"Sometime I'll tell you all about it," I said, "but just now there is something important for you to do, and you must take my word that I was mistaken about her guilt."

Asks To See Carolyn

"May I see her?" he asked eagerly.

"That is exactly what I am asking of you," I said. "She needs you now as she never needed you before. She is with Mrs. Underwood now, and when their interview is ended Miss Whitlock shall see that you get a chance to talk with Carolyn. I will arrange that. Tomorrow morning my father wishes you to go with Carolyn, Uncle Dicky and Miss Whitlock up to Weirhampton, where you will leave Carolyn."

"Oh, I shall be so glad to go with her!" he said. "And I can hardly wait to see her."

Gives His Promise

"You will be very careful of what you say to her, Ronald," I cautioned him. Do not refer to her secret in any way, or ask her any questions."

"I won't," he promised.

"I must go now, Ronald," I said. "My father wishes your Uncle Dicky and me to go back to the hotel with him, but first I'll tell Miss Whitlock you are to see Carolyn. Good night, dear boy, and good luck!"

With his hard young arms about me, he gave me a fervent "bear hug."

"You blessed good angel!" he said. "I only hope I can repay you some day."

Then I went on to Miss Whitlock's room and gave her the message about Ronald and Carolyn, and repeated my father's wish that she should accompany Carolyn, Dicky and Ronald to Weirhampton after everybody had a sound sleep.

Plan for a Rest

"I think hot milk and mild sedatives are in order for everybody," she said. "I could fairly see nerves crackling all over the place tonight, and I certainly am glad you have that Brixton girl straightened out. I would as soon have a young tiger cat on a leash for a journey as to escort her as she was before you tamed her. You did a good job."

"I hope it sticks," I said, "and I'm pretty sure it will. However—" I paused

"However, it will be just as well if I keep my eyes open," she said, "and I'll just do that little thing."

She stopped and looked at me with a twinkle in her eye.

"You remember the old admonition, don't you?" she asked.

"'Trust in the Lord, and keep your powder dry.'"

HOROSCOPE

FOR SATURDAY, OCT. 24

By the exercise of conservatism, diplomacy, and finesse, this day may develop some measure of success and satisfaction, although generally it is beset by dangers, opposition and many untoward or unhappy situations. Superiors, employers, and the public are likely to be exacting in the rigid performance of duty and the enforcement of rules.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter many difficulties if they attempt to indulge in all sorts of excesses or take liberties in its public and private relations. Superiors and the public authorities might not prove lenient of generous. Conserve the energies and substance and all may be well.

A child born on this day while having talents and energies, may be prone to prefer the pursuit of pleasure to a worthy career.

"The Authority on Authorities"

MAKE UP A PATTERN

Some hands are virtually impossible to play successfully unless you construct a more or less complete pattern of the opponents' holdings and then proceed exactly as if you have taken a good peek and are working on a double-dummy problem. If your pattern proves to be correct, then you bring home the bacon. If it proves incorrect, you are beaten, but even then you are only in the same spot as if you had not made the pattern. You may gain by it, but you can't lose.

West doubled 6-No Trumps at two tables of a duplicate, one declarer being set two tricks and the other making his contract. Where it was set the diamond 5 brought the 10 and A, heart 2 was led to the A, club 6 led to the K and A, diamond Q returned to the K, heart J led to the Q, club Q scored, two more hearts and three top spades, but then the last two were given up with the diamond 3 to the J and the club J.

The other declarer, after the same diamond 5 lead, decided West must have had the club A, also at least four spades, to have doubled. He saw no chance unless East had the club J. If West had only three clubs to the A-9, he could then coast home; if West had four clubs to the A-9, a squeeze was marked in the black suits.

After building that pattern, he worked on it, taking the diamond 5 with dummy's K and leading the club 6, finessing the 10 successfully to force the A. But before that finesse, to keep the entry situation right, he cashed four hearts, on which West was troubled, but properly discarded his diamond 6 and Q rather than waste any black cards, as East had signaled with the 8 on the first diamond. With only black cards remaining, when his club A won, West returned the spade J to dummy's A. Then came the squeezing trick. The diamond 3 was led to the A and West was out of luck. If he tossed a spade, the 3 would have been set up for the winning trick. So he discarded his club 2. The club K and Q then dropped his 9, making the 8 good, and two more spades brought South under the wire with his contract.

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Not a day passes but some girl asks if she shall give her photograph to the attractive soldier she met for the first time the night before.

The request for the picture usually was petitioned with something like, "I've never asked a girl for her picture before" or, "It's never hit me just like this" or, "I never imagined this could happen to me," and other phrases denoting complete surrender on the part of the man in khaki.

But when a girl writes: "Dear Miss Fairfax: He has asked for my picture and I got the best They cost me $25. I sent it to him and haven't heard a word from him since"—well, she'd better watch not only her step but her pocketbook.

If the girl is an Old Hand at the game, she knows exactly what these fine sentiments are worth. Maybe one time in fifty they're true as Gospel, but usually it's just one of a man's 57 varieties of making himself agreeable. The Old Hand, a girl who knows her onions, takes it for what it's worth.

There's a mousey type of girl to whom no one has paid much attention before, and these words seem written in the stars. In the twinkling of an eye she's changed. She acquires the beauty that is given to those who are devotedly loved (as she sees it).

So, when it comes to asking for her photograph, the girl not only consents but has some of those splendiferous photographs taken that will cost her a week's pay envelope, and so large perhaps the doughboy bound for overseas could not conveniently take it along.

Then the nice, quiet, little girl begins to realize that making love, sweet speeches, a kiss or two, and a plea for a photograph is nothing on which to buy one's trousseau. And if she isn't too confiding, sooner or later she becomes another "Old Hand" and she wastes no more big money on big photographs.

Snapshots are all right. They're fun for the boys to take overseas, look them over and remember jolly times They cost nothing or practically nothing and it doesn't really matter in these days of the candid camera who snaps whom. But unless you know your soldier boy well, and have known him for some time, and know he's not "kidding" when he says these things to you, better not put your money in expensive photographs.

Massillon Seeks Revenge Tonight for 6-6 Tie In 1941

Rams Edge to 13-6 Win Over St. Mary's

It's getting to be a chant: "How about a post season game?"

Ashland wants one with Mansfield. Madison wants one with Mansfield. Mt. Vernon wants one with Fredericktown, but would settle for a Fredericktown-Madison game.

BUT in each case it's the FANS, and NOT the schools doing the chanting. The schools are mum.

* * *

What's with the Ashland-Mansfield thing? Bill McKee in the Ashland Times-Gazette, suggests that although Ashland two years ago decided that year in and year out Mansfield would have too much manpower for the A's and severed gridiron relations, the cause for that action doesn't hold good this season and Ashland fans would like to see their club play the Tygers.

He also suggests that it could be put on for the Community or War Chests of the two communities, thereby painlessly extracting many dollars from the football populace for those worthy causes in both cities.

* *

So let the War Chests play the host
For that chunk of season known as post.

* * *

Down in Mt. Vernon they are beating the drums for a Mt. Vernon-Fredericktown game for the Knox county U. S. O. fund, a Knox county game for the benefit of Knox county soldiers.

But there's no assurance that the Mt. Vernons would beat the Furious Freddies with their great Ollie Cline, who last week tallied 44 points against Mt. Gilead, returning one kickoff for a touchdown. And there's also the question of whether Fredericktown would want to risk its great record against Class A Mt. Vernon.

So the Fredericktown Madison game has been suggested.

* * *

Now, what has happened to the suggestion in this column some time ago of a Mansfield-Madison game? Plenty, as far as the stirring up of fan interest is concerned. Nothing as far as actual steps toward such a game.

It was suggested as a War Chest benefit, and if anything is to be done about it, it's up to the War Chest committee to get busy. Up to now there's been no action from the committee. Perhaps they don't read the sports page. I wouldn't be surprised.

* * *

None of the five schools mentioned can be expected to challenge an opponent for a post season war benefit game. It will take an outside organization with a good cause to sell to bring them together.

Army-Navy Crowd Sliced

Only Annapolis Fans Permitted at Game.

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Thousands of eastern football fans—including probably the secretaries of war and of the navy—were war casualties today by virtue of President Roosevelt's order that only residents of Annapolis, Md. will be permitted to buy tickets to the Army-Navy game there on Nov. 28.

* * *

The White House announced the decision to move the game from its traditional site at the Philadelphia Municipal stadium, capacity 102,000, to U. S. Naval Academy stadium at Annapolis, capacity 23,000.

* * *

Coupled with the announcement were specific orders from Mr Roosevelt, himself, that tickets for the best crowd-attracter of any regular football season "be issued only to residents of Annapolis—not to outsiders" in order to conserve tires and rubber.

The president also directed "that every precaution be taken to prevent persons living outside of Annapolis—in Washington or Baltimore or other nearby places—from securing tickets of admission to the game."

Weather Causes Poor Game

All Nineteen Points Scored In First Period.

IT WAS a poor night for football but an excellent night for poor football as Madison high school Rams eked out a 13-6 decision over an unpredictable Marion St. Mary's aggregation under the lights on Ram hill last night.

With a drizzling rain falling through most of the game, and at times developing into a downpour, both teams found the going sloggy, and both were guilty of some very poor tackling as they slid off the wet togs of their opponents.

* * *

All 19 points were scored in the first period, and after that the weather put up a stonewall defense in front of the two lines.

* * *

On the third play after the opening kickoff, Danny McGinnis, St. Mary's halfback, started on an ordinary plunge into the middle of the Madison line. Four tacklers had clean cuts at him, and slid off, and the surprised McGinnis found himself out in the open and galloping for the Madison goal line 63 yards away for a touchdown. A pass for point was incomplete and the visitors had a 6-0 lead.

It wasn't many minutes later before Madison took the lead. A long rolling punt by Captain Harold Hammer came to rest on the St. Mary's three-yard mark, and the Saints, after making one first down deep in their own territory, opened up with an ill-advised passing attack.

Dick Bader intercepted the first heave in the flat and raced 30 yards for the tying touchdown, and Hammer went off tackle for the extra point to put Madison in the lead 7-6.

* * *

And in the closing minutes of the first period Bob Anthony started on an off-tackle shoot, wiggled loose from three tacklers, and sped 57 yards for another Madison touchdown to make it 13-6.

* * *

That was all, brother.

The rain came down and ball carriers couldn't get their footing and passers couldn't find the handle on the ball, and offensive efforts ebbed to a feeble effort.

St. Mary's, helped by numerous penalties on the Rams, threatened throughout the last period, twice getting first downs on the Madison 15-yard line, but blowing their chances through futile passing attempts.

The Marion club had 19 incomplete passes last night, and three interceptions.

But they added to the gaiety of the occasion with their unorthodox play, passing in dangerous territory and once using a flea-flicker pass from fake punt on fourth down and six to go on their thirty-yard line. And it worked for a first down.

Golf Pros Plan War Benefit Tour

NEW YORK —(UP)— An exhibition tour by the country's leading golfers with the entire proceeds going to war relief may replace the annual $100,000 winter tour, the tournament committee of the Professional Golfers association announced today.

The committee met Tuesday to discuss possible cancellations of the annual junket but Secretary Fred Corcoran announced that "no definite action" had been taken. All discussions have been tabled for final action at the executive committee meeting in Chicago Nov. 9.

* * *

"Before we could conduct such a tour for relief," Corcoran said, "we would have to settle on a definite minimum amount to be guaranteed service relief and then would have to obtain official approval of the war department."

* * *

Corcoran said he would begin immediately to contact the players still available. He said that sponsors had cancelled only two winter tournaments, the Oakland, Cal. open, and the masters, at Augusta, Ga. Eighteen others still were listed.

Tyger Majorettes Add Their Dash of Color at Game

Four Tie for Top Position

And Four More Teams Deadlock For Second.

Commercial "B" league keglers are staging the closest race of any of the Mansfield maple gathering circuits these days at Colony alleys.

* * *

Standings today saw four teams tied for first place with four more tied in the runner-up spot only two games away from the top.

* * *

Jim Weems took scoring honors for the league last night with a 613 total while J. Romig turned in high game of 240. Mehl's Service Station had high team total of 2,691, and Yuncker Sports rolled high game of 937.

REPORTS FOR DUTY

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Jack Jacobs, Cherokee Indian rookie halfback who made a briliant record this season with the Cleveland Rams, will report for duty with the Army Air Corps at Oklahoma City Nov. 8. He is 23.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP)—One of the biggest boosts for football we've seen in a long time was a letter that Harvard's Dick Harlow read to the Boston sportswriters the other day. . . . It came from Lieut. Harry Kopp, one of Dick's former Western Maryland players and later a coach, who is in England with the army. . . . Can't quote it all, but here are a few of his remarks: "We play about twice a week. We haven't any padding at all, but that doesn't stop the soldiers. Injuries are nil. . . . No one can ever tell me the American youth is not as tough as anything that walks . . . It's the best morale builder I have found yet . . . We have a real tough one coming up soon and no one is afraid. In fact we are ready for the kick-off. I hope it isn't a forward pass but a real Dobie off-tackle play."

* * *

DRAWING A CONCLUSION.

When Colgate plays Penn State tomorrow, two of the oldest coaches in point of service, Andy (14 years) Kerr and Bob (13 years) Higgins, will be on the benches.

* * *

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE.

Contributions to the thoroughbred club's war auction at Keeneland tonight include a dozen or so well-bred colts and fillies, stud service by War Admiral and Blue Larkspur, a set of Man o' War's racing plates, a registered bull and 11 country hams. . . . Joe Gould and Jimmy Braddock already have picked up a fighter in the army. They're lending their expert advice to Welterweight Joe De Martino, a private at Fort Slocum where Joe and Jimmy are training.

* * *

SERVICE DEPT.

New Orleans is planning a ten-team basketball league for service men this winter. . . . Burrell Bell, leading hitter of the Norfolk Naval Training Station baseball team in 1941 B. F. (before Feller), was aboard the Quincy when the ship was sunk in the Solomons.

* * *

WORD GAMES.

When the Clemson freshman footballers found a kid on their squad named Mustar, they immediately tagged him "Hotstuff" and a Marylander suggests that Bob Roulette, frosh back, should be good on spinning plays. . . . Wisconsin's publicity dept. expresses the fear that Purdue will fill Ross-Ade stadium with passes. . . . Well, don't they get their guarantee anyway?

WIDENER AWARDED HORSEMAN TROPHY

LEXINGTON, Ky. — (AP) — George D. Widener, Philadelphia sportsman and one of the nation's leading turfmen, will receive the "Horseman of the year" award tonight.

The award, made by the Thoroughbred Club of America, will be presented at a barbecue and fish fry sponsored by the club at Keeneland race course here at which services of 28 thoroughbred stallions in seven states will be auctioned to promote the sale of war bonds and to raise money for war and community relief agencies.

Ohio Gridiron Card Sparkles

Sinkwich Visit to Cincy Takes Top Spot.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio State's battling and baffling Bucks, the nation's top grid team, meet Northwestern on the Wildcats' home lot Saturday—but there are some pretty fair gridiron scraps on tap for the Buckeye stay-at-homes.

In a curtain-raiser last night, Youngstown college blanked Geneva (Pa.) college 20 to 0 to snap the Pennsylvanians' four-game winning streak. Youngstown scored touchdowns in the last three periods and placekicked two of its three tries for extra points.

Of the 16 contests involving Ohio college squads Saturday, 14 are on the local gridirons, and some of them are certain to offer plenty of thrills.

* * *

Undoubtedly the No. 1 fracas takes place at Cincinnati, as Coach Joe Meyers' U. of Cincinnati unbeaten-untied Bearcats face mighty Georgia and All-America Frankie Sinkwich, the running-passing-kicking terror from Youngstown.

* * *

Up at Bowling Green the Falcons are having line trouble as they prepare to meet Miami. The Bee-Gees have been beaten once in four starts—and that by a single point.

Four Ohio conference games are on tap, but all eight teams have been beaten in the league. The loop contests are Findlay at Capital, Mt Union at Heidelberg, Muskingum at Wooster and Baldwin Wallace at Wittenberg.

Other scraps scheduled Saturday:

* * *

Kenyon at Hiram, Ohio Wesleyan at Ohio university, Oberlin at Swarthmore, Marshall at Toledo, Western Reserve at Kent State, Xavier at Dayton, Wright-Patterson Fields at Defiance, Denison vs. Miami Radio Naval Unit at Hamilton, and Marietta vs. Rio Grande at Wellston, the latter three being under the lights.

* * *

Declares Rickey Already Hired

NEW YORK —(UP)— Joe Williams, sports columnist of the New York World-Telegram, says in an exclusive story today that Branch Rickey is the new general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, succeeding Lt. Col. Larry MacPhail.

* * *

"Formal announcement to this effect can be expected at any time, today, next week," Williams says. "In any event, it has been definitely decided."

* * *

Rickey, general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, comes to the Brooklyn club on a long-term contract at compromise terms, the details of which are unavailable yet, according to Williams, who states that George Weiss, secretary and vice president of the Yankees, was Rickey's only opposition for the job.

Tygers Hope to Make Respectable Showing

Visiting Band Performance Draws Many In Expected Crowd of 8,000

IF A STRANGER in town gets the idea tonight that all of Mansfield is crazy, don't blame the stranger.

And if the bewildered stranger asks a popeyed resident what all the shooting's about and the P. E. resident retorts: "It's the Massillon game," the stranger is apt to be sure for certain that the whole town is nuts.

But that will annoy no one. The whole town gives itself up tonight to the Mansfield-Massillon gridiron mania, a virulent form of insanity that attacks the city just once a year. And the fact that 1,500 gridmaniacs from Massillon will be in the roaring throng will not help any semblance of sanity that may creep into the occasion.

* * *

From the time the high school starts its pep rally in Central park at 5:45 p. m. until the end of the game, at Stadium field, the town will be in an uproar. There may be some headaches later when the score is added up, but that won't spoil the fun.

* * *

The Mansfield Tyger band will lead the parade to Central park, and then, after the rally, will lead a gigantic snake dance to Stadium field. Included in the parade will be an army recruiting caravan including a 25-piece band with musicians from the best known dance orchestras in the country, also an army jeep, mobile unit, and army trucks.

There will be the usual warm-up practice sessions by the Mansfield and Massillon teams, the customary flag raising ceremony, the flip of the coin, and the game will be on. A large part of the crowd, expected to approximate 8,000 persons, will be waiting for the between-halves appearance of the famous Massillon high school band of 92 pieces, whose performance has been rated by many competent observers as "the greatest show on earth."

Coaches of both teams have agreed to a 40-minute intermission between halves to let the Massillon band perform. First in the intermission a group of Mansfield enlistees in the navy will be introduced while the assembled crowd gives the salute to the flag.

The Massillon band will have a large part of the remaining time, followed by the Mansfield band.

Massillon comes here tonight seeking revenge for a 6-6 tie which marred its undefeated record last season. And although in some quarters there has been the prediction that the Tigers would give their second team plenty of experience tonight and rest up the regulars for games to come, Massillon is expected to let its first team ramble in the hope of running up a score.

Mansfield's Tygers will be in there to make as good a showing as possible, and to attempt to hold the score down to respectable figures.

Probable starting lineups for tonight's game:

Picks Wolves Over Gophers

Expert Tries Hand at Other Games Tomorrow.

By HERB BARKER

NEW YORK—(AP)—Taking the usual scatter-shot at the weekly football program:

Notre Dame-Illinois: The renaissance of Illinois football under Ray Eliot has been one of the season's chief high-spots. Notre Dame, after a disappointing start, reached a peak against Iowa Pre-Flight and seems ready to move on. This looks like an even proposition from any angle and the coin spins. . . . Notre Dame.

Georgia Tech-Navy: Tech numbers Notre Dame among its victims. Navy has done nothing this season to warrant this vote going anywhere but to Georgia Tech.

* * *

Michigan - Minnesota: The Wolverines have a scoring punch against top-flight competition. Minnesota has been a far cry from the machines Bernie Bierman sent to the football wars. Michigan.

* * *

Ohio State-Northwestern: In which the nation's current No. 1 ranking team meets a dangerous rival. Ohio State, but the Buckeyes will need to watch Otto Graham.

Duke-Pitt: The Dukes have gotten themselves organized. Duke.

Alabama-Kentucky: On the face of the records, Alabama should be a sure thing.

Southern California-Stanford: Southern Cal.

Santa Clara-U. C. L. A.: One of the toughest games of the day to figure. A flier on U. C. L. A.

North Carolina State-Holy Cross: N. C. State.

Brown-Princeton: This vote for Brown.

Iowa-Indiana: Very tough indeed. Out of the hat, Indiana.

Great Lakes-Michigan State: Taking Great Lakes.

Iowa State-Missouri: Should be easy for Missouri.

California-Washington: The nod goes to Washington.

Mansfield News-Journal
AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER
MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1942.

Anything that slows down the war production, whether it's bickering between the services as to priorities, or slow-down strikes, is just as much sabotage against America as if it came from the enemy.—Roane Waring, commander American Legion.

Good Example of United Effort

THE WAY in which Mansfield school children responded to the call for help in salvaging scrap metal to meet war needs will long serve as an example of what can be done in this community when enthusiastic interest of children and adults is aroused—and when the spirit of competition is introduced in the program.

The whole salvaging campaign, as related to participation by the city's schools, was so efficiently handled and so productive of gratifying results, that individual credit could not be fairly bestowed, nor would this be appropriate in an instance where all were striving with equal effort to accomplish the one big thing of getting together as much scrap as possible.

There has been inclination on the part of Donald Nelson, and others prominent in leadership of the war effort, to be rather lavish in praise of newspapers for their sponsorship of what has turned out to be a phenomenally successful salvage campaign, but—frankly—in this, as in any other activity involving group participation, a newspaper can do no more than spread information which serves to release the power of the people for some particular worthy purpose.

In this instance it was the salvage campaign, with particular emphasis on the part which school children could play in helping win the war.

Always there is something—local, state or national—in which newspapers can co-operate with other agencies in some project designed for the public good, and this is especially true during wartime when there is such a vast field of essential activities to be covered in an informative way.

As the newspaper which constantly strives to serve this community to the best of its ability, The News-Journal is glad to have been helpful in the scrap collection campaign and to place credit for accomplishment where it belongs—upon the people, children and adults, who shared in the effort, either by direction or contributions.

Fewer Pennies, Keep 'Em Moving

KEEP PENNIES MOVING—that's the newest request of Uncle Sam, who had heretofore been well pleased to have millions of these minor coins dropped into children's banks as a start-off of thrift habits.

Now it's the copper in pennies that is causing concern, and penny minting is to be cut 50 per cent this year. Last year federal mints produced more than a billion pennies, which required 3,261 tons of copper.

It is calculated that if each family in the country turned in ten pennies the gain would be about 1,000 tons of copper.

Sales taxes, odd prices, parking meters and vending machines require many pennies and it is being urged by Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the mint, that children's banks be emptied of pennies and the coins put into circulation.

As "nickels" are now being coined without use of precious nickel, it may be presumed that these may be used to replace pennies in the child's bank—although it is purchase of war savings stamps that is recommended—these to be exchanged for interest-bearing war savings bonds.

Another convenience is to have a few pennies in your pocket or purse—for use in paying sales tax on small items and to provide the "odd" penny when four cents in change would otherwise be required.

Gerald L. K. Smith Speaks Again

PEOPLE who have heard of Gerald L. K. Smith but who know little about him, may get a fair estimate of the man by reading what he thinks about the 35-mile speed limit prescribed by the government in an effort to conserve rubber.

One the eve of a planned motor trip from Detroit to Kalamazoo, Smith announced in a formal statement that he would disregard the 35-mile restriction and drive at the peace-time limit of 60 miles an hour.

"We had just as well find out now who's running Michigan, Leon Henderson or the people of Michigan," Smith said. "I am defying this bureaucratic ruling of 35 miles an hour limit because I believe if it continues it will slow down the war effort."

Smith campaigned for the Republican senatorial nomination at the primaries on a "tires for everybody" platform. He was defeated but plans to run as an independent at the November election.

There is just one Gerald L. K. Smith—that is plenty.

Impoverished German People

LOUIS P. LOCHNER, American correspondent who recently returned from Germany, says: "In Berlin it is impossible to get such items as tooth paste, shoe laces, jelly glasses, dust cloths, floor wax, typewriter ribbons, or clothes pins. German children are not only collecting scrap metal, but also bones, bottles, paper, rubber and old books, herbs, and old garments."

The scantiness and monotony of their diet are well known. Adequate clothing is impossible.

In short, the great German people, following Adolf Hitler in a rash effort to conquer the world, are now reduced to living on scraps and rags.

Dark Christmas Along Coasts

CHRISTMAS lighting of homes, including outdoor illumination of pine trees, is being called off in coastal regions for this year, as a part of defense precautions.

While it is unlikely that a similar ban will extend to interior cities it may appear that darkness, rather than light, will be more appropriate to the coming Christmas season. The joyful spirit of Christmas should be kept in the hearts of America's children, even in time of war, but for their elders it is only through faith and hope that a real Christmas can be envisioned after the dark cloud of Axis threat has been removed from the world.

With eggs at their present price there seems all the more reason for not putting all of them in one basket.

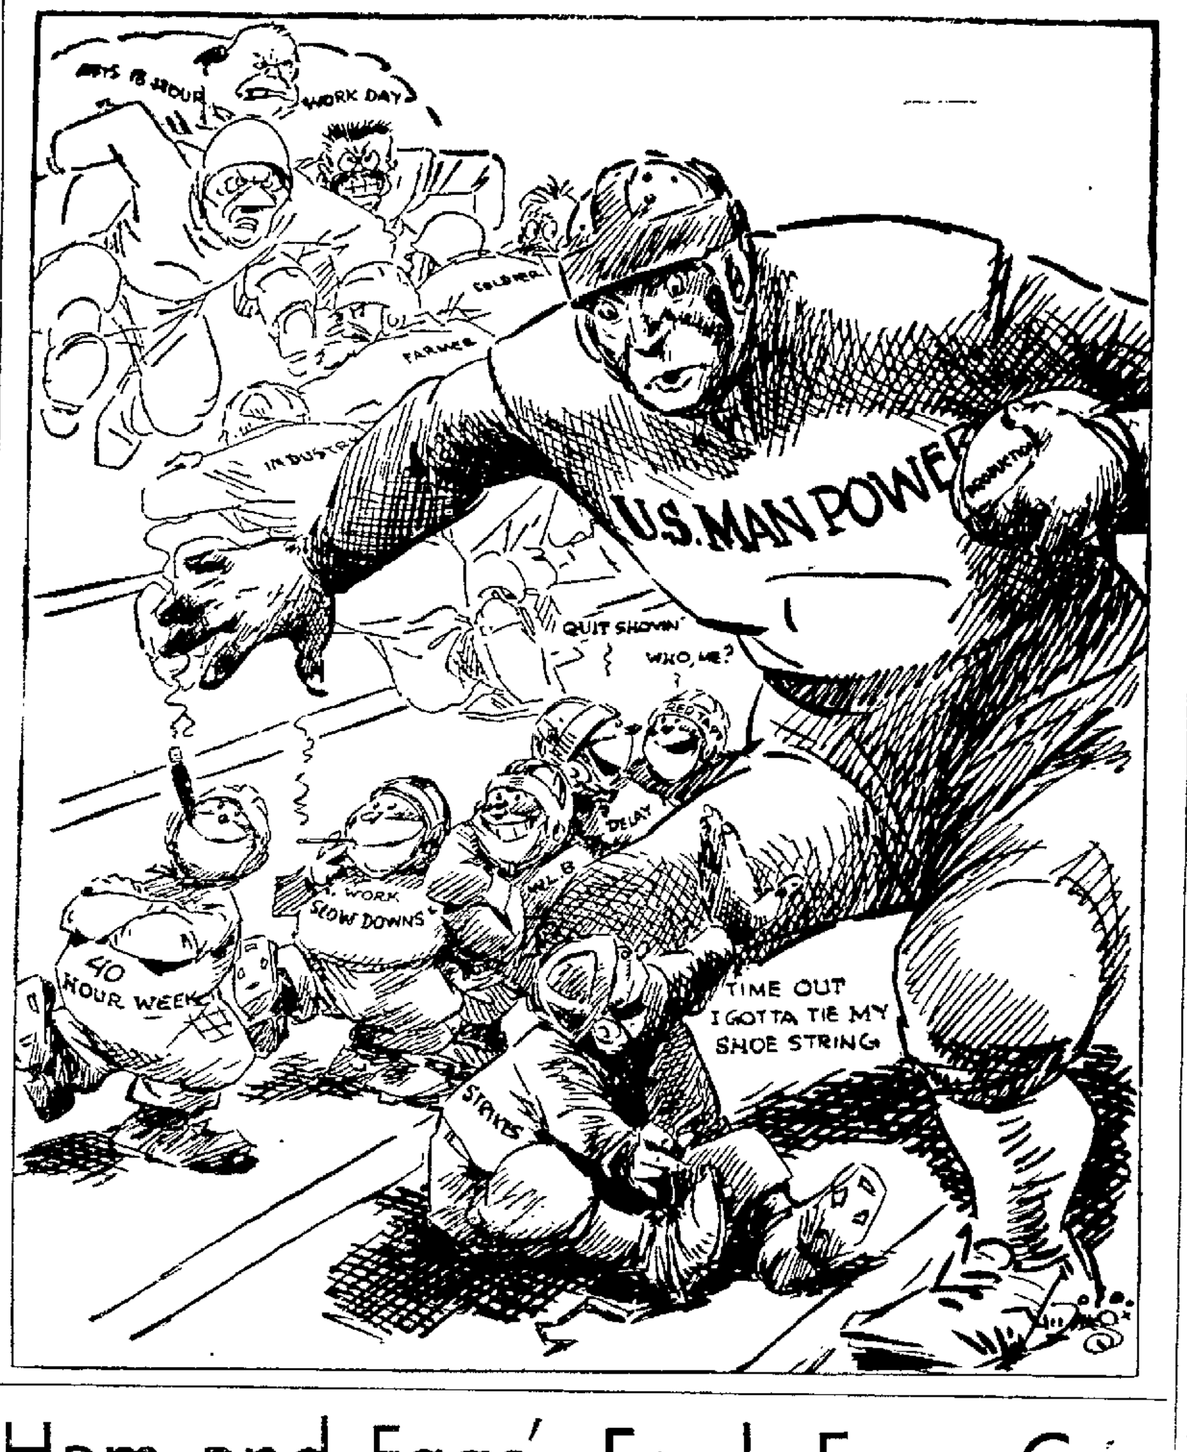
FOOTBALL CRITICS WOULD CALL IT 'SLOW INTERFERENCE'



'Ham and Eggs'—Fresh From Can

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — Most of us had thought that the packers and canners of this country had just about gone the limit in providing "can opener cooks" with wide variety in menus. In fact we had read so many comments from husbands, eager for the old-fashioned meals that mother used to prepare, that we had regarded the spread of canned food as almost an unmixed evil—something that permitted the good wife to spend entirely too many hours over the bridge table, or shopping.

But it takes the army to really go to town on canned food items, not to mention the navy and the marine corps. Now the soldier boys have canned "ham and eggs." Picture that—and picture what you are going to get when this cruel war is over, and there is plenty of tin for canning again.

Incidentally the war department is proud of its achievements in feeding the soldiers and is boasting about them, with the laudable purpose of assuring anxious parents that their boys overseas, as well as those in the camps at home, are getting plenty of good nourishing food.

Most of them, some of us suspect, are eating better than they ate at home, whether the cooking back home was done by a bridge playing wife or an old fashioned mother. But Uncle Sam has turned out to be the No. 1 can opener cook in all creation.

Take this breakfast menu announced by the Quartermaster General's office: Canned grapefruit, dry cereal, canned ham and eggs, soluble coffee, canned milk, and sugar!

On that same day the dinner (middle of the day meal) menu was: pea soup (dehydrated) creamed corned beef, canned snap beans, hard candy, orange juice powder (takes up less packing space than canned orange juice) and sugar. And for supper that night the boys got: baked beans (dehydrated) canned vegetables, evaporated apricots and cocoa with sugar and milk.

* * *

GLANCING through other sample menus we notice canned bacon, canned milk, dehydrated bean soup, instant rice, canned peas, lemon juice powder (lemonade seems to be a favorite substitute for coffee, tea and milk for dinner and supper menus) and the inevitable prune.

Many a soldier, according to the quartermasters, has said he could fight a lot harder if he just had American cooked ham and eggs.

But this wish, says the statement, "hasn't been easy to grant in the thick of furious fighting where regular facilities for mess are rarely available, where fresh meat and eggs are out of the question, and when the time spent in preparing an appetizing meal may spell the difference between victory and defeat.

"But now for the first time in any war, American troops in the front lines are being provided with their favorite dish. In the case of ham and eggs, all the soldier has to do is open up a can, light a fire and place can and contents (pre-cooked ham and eggs, finely ground) on it. Almost before the fighting man has time to work up an appetite his ham and scrambled eggs are ready and taste like the fresh variety. Some soldiers claim they are even better, which is not surprising since they were developed by the best minds in the army and the industrial food field."

So that's what we are going to have, after the war, when the little woman oversleeps!

Listen World!

Pick a Pattern

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I LOOK at Old People, sizing them up. Some day I'll be old myself and our old age, I suspect, is pretty much what we choose it to be. So I'm shopping around—picking the kind of Old Person I want as a pattern.

Some Old People are great human stuff. Stout lovers of life, as full of what-it-takes at 70 as they were at 17. Interested, eager, impulsive . . . quick on the trigger for either a joke or a scrap . . . still asking enough questions and taking enough risks to keep them warmly real, not just "a dream walking."

No let-down in these lusty old men, these zestful old women — they're still in the thick of things, taking the jumps as they come, along with the yearlings. Mighty heartening to meet Old People like that. They step you up. Affect you like old wine or a hunting song - or a stiff walk through a November gale. You glow . . . feel a tinging of new strength and desire . . . New pride and faith in your own humanity. And all life assumes a larger dignity and importance.

You know, beyond any doubting, that they'll die with their boots on, these old battlers. Be still keen on their deathbeds for a dish o' gossip . . . still ready to fight over the election returns. Death is just another hurdle for spirits as quick as theirs. The grave was never dug that could hold them. They'll be raising Heck in Heaven—starting a scandal among the angels before you've even ordered the wreath.

Such Old Age isn't a tragedy—it's a triumph. But, unfortunately, all too rare a triumph. For to every Old Person who is like that, there are a score who aren't. Dismal old dodderers, pesty and peevish, who make a racket of their creaking joints and ossified emotions. Maybe the Zulus weren't so dumb with their crocodile program! Haven't you seen a few Old Meanies you'd like to feed down-stream yourself?

However, there's an even worse type of Elder than these Aged Aggravaters- and that's the pompous old Patriarch who turns philosophical. And henceforth proceeds to survey the whole human scene with condescending pity . . . smiling contemptuously on our Foolish Furies . . . boasting how they cured themselves of such childish turbulence.

This form of Old Age is particularly dangerous because it looks so sage and respectable and gets such a ready hand from almost any audience. "How wonderful!" we sigh, wiping the sweat and blood from our bewildered eyes, "how wonderful and wise to possess such poise . . . to be able to stand aloof from all distractions!"

Wonderful? Phooey! There is nothing admirable nor intelligent in such detachment. It is simply a supreme exhibition of laziness and cowardice. Life was not made for peace—nor were our brains given us that we might attain safety and contentment. Life was made for action.

Only those who dare to act . . . dare to experiment and adventure, wonder and desire, yearn and grieve, rejoice and rebel, really live. The others have crawled into their coffins and pulled the lids down after them. As door stops, paper weights or garden ornaments, they're interesting knick-knacks—but as Men they're a complete flop.

Yes, I know—the doctors will tell you that this condition is due to hardened arteries or some such physical mishaps. Don't you believe it! Lively spirits can still function in shattered flesh. If you become a Dodo at 60, it's because you choose to.

And they are worse than contemptible — these complacent Methuselahs. They are traitors to our highest human faith. For if it be a man's duty to live life dangerously while young, it is his far greater obligation to live it gallantly when he is old - as one who still rejoices in a good bargain, still pits himself against those forces which would conquer a mere brute. Those who, through laziness or cowardice, slip out of the fight before the curtain falls, betray not only themselves but all the race. And should be despised accordingly!

Give me hearty Old People . . . reckless Old People . . . Old People who still dare to be mad and glad, sad and bad! As for me, I'd rather end up in a disorderly gutter in the middle of a gorgeous brawl than on any placid Mount Olympus that ever parked a philosophical posterior.

Timely Editorial

The Farm Front.

Although the importance of food in the war effort is being constantly stressed, disquieting reports come in from the farm front. The farms have been drained of their able-bodied help by the draft. What the draft has failed to take has been lured away by shorter hour defense jobs.

Some farmers are selling their farms, or at least disposing of their dairy herds, and going to the city. They figure a 40-hour a week defense job, paying $8 to $10 a day is better than slaving it out on the farm.

Growing beans, corn and wheat, pork and beef may not appear as romantic and colorful as building bombers and battleships, and it may not be as lucrative financially, but it is imperative. Interpreting the War News

Length of War Depends on Speed At Which Air Force Is Expanded

—By DE WITT MACKENZIE

LONDON—On the basis that he is a poor prophet who has to run away from his own predictions, I am now prepared to reaffirm a forecast of months ago—that Hitler would be a beaten man if he did not break through this year to the fresh resources of the lower Caucasus and to strategic bases of the Middle East.

As a matter of fact, I have been reaffirming it as vigorously as possible for the past two days in these articles. They have tried to demonstrate that the Allies might win the Hitlerian part of the World war by next fall if Britain and America rush to the kill right away with their bomber forces over western Europe and Germany.

The year is not finished and winter has not arrived. A lot of things might happen in a couple of months. The Nazi dictator continues to pour the blood of Germany's youth against the scarred portals of Stalingrad and among the rocky foothills of the Caucasus. It wouldn't be surprising if he made some further gains.

Still, barring the appearance of black magic to aid him, we can discount the future and stand on what already has happened. Herr Hitler is mortally hurt right now and you can pin that in your hat.

Recently I have put it to four distinguished generals, one American and three British, that the fuehrer's back already is broken. Every one agreed.

Now, please don't get the mistaken idea that I say the war is over. It isn't by a damned sight. Hitler is on his way out but he still has all the ferocity and fighting strength of a cornered rat.

We have bloody days before us. The Allies will suffer defeats and disappointments before we are through. The rat still has to be clubbed into submission. However, in the view of many experts, that dirty but satisfying job can be done by perhaps a year from now if we approach it rightly.

* * *

THE PREDICTION that Hitler would be rendered vulnerable to a death thrust if he arrived in his present state by the end of the year was based on two thoughts:

1. Lacking fresh resources and strategical bases which would go with them, he would be unable to repair the colossal damage suffered in Russia.

2. Meantime, the United States and Britain would have been piling up strength and would be able to jump on him in his weakness.

Well, the first condition seems fulfilled. Upon fulfillment of the second condition depends whether we may be able to beat the Nazi anti-Christ by, say, next fall or whether the war will drag on interminably. Everything depends on the speed with which we act and the manner in which we attack.

I have tried to make it clear in my last two articles that a concentrated Anglo-American air attack on western Europe and Germany would turn the trick if undertaken at once. That is the consensus of many military observers.

We have a double mission to perform. We must hit Hitler immediately while he still is groggy from exertions in Russia. We must prepare the way for that second land front which will give the gallant Russians the relief they need.

I have pointed out that there are less than 200 prime targets for our combined air forces to destroy in order to force the all highest close to impotency. Actually, the destruction of 40 of the most vital would knock his hopes into a cocked hat.

* * *

THE THING needed to make this aerial assault possible is quick reinforcement of both British and American bomber fleets in Britain. By trebling the present forces at once the trick could be turned fairly quickly.

The RAF and our own grand airmen have been giving concrete examples recently of how virtually whole military targets can be wiped out in a single raid.

And believe me, if the Allies try to land half a million boys on the shores of France without ample air preparation you are going to see a slaughter that will rock the world. Dunkerque will be a Sunday school picnic in comparison.

Every major war produces some new weapon. A bomber of the flying fortress type is the new weapon now at hand. This is a crucial moment in the war—this great opportunity—calling for full use of the air arm.

This is a real emergency. If the Allied command can collect the necessary bombers and get them to this great base in Britain right away, we can meet the emergency and crush Hitler without long drawn-out conflict.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

(Second of Two Articles on Lt. Gen. Somervell.)

WASHINGTON—Lt. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, chief of the U. S. Army services of supply, got his knowledge of capital bureaucracy, politics and society early.

When he was 15, his father, a physician, and his mother, a former school teacher, moved here from Little Rock, Ark., and opened Belcourt Seminary, a finishing school for young ladies. That put the family in the thick of things and three years later, young Brehon was off to West Point.

In 1914, he graduated sixth in his class, became a second lieutenant in the Army's "brain corps"—the engineers. Somervell is probably the only man in the Army who has so distinguished himself and earned both honors and advancement "on leave."

* * *

HE WAS "on leave" in Paris when World War I broke out. He hurried to the American embassy, volunteered his services, and made his mark herding stranded Americans home.

Four years later, he was again "on leave" in Paris, borrowed his general's car, drove to the front and volunteered his services. This was one of those things the Army catalogues as "highly irregular," but the 89th Division gave him a job. He participated in the Meuse-Argonne offensive and came out of it with the Distinguished Service Cross.

He was "on leave" too when he made WPA history by handling that troublesome New Deal agency in New York for four years.

* * *

SOMERVELL'S post-World war romance with YWCA worker Anna Purnell resulted in their marriage at Coblenz in 1919. Mrs. Somervell died recently and the general's household is now managed by his three daughters, but he is at his desk from 12 to 17 hours a day.

One of those Washington rumors being kicked around these days is that General George C. Marshall is going to be placed in charge of the second front and that the man who will succeed him as chief of staff is Lieutenant General Somervell.

The rumor in itself isn't important. The fact that Somervell is practically the only one mentioned as General Marshall's successor is. He's a favorite with congress and congressional committees. He has welcomed criticism from the men on the Hill and has been intolerant only of what he calls "the curbstone and barroom generals."

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, Oct. 23, 1922.

Mansfield General hospital was included in "approved list" by American College of Surgeons.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Davidson, West Sixth street.

C. M. Sackett bought interest of W. F. Mattern in the Richland Candy company.

TODAY IN HISTORY

First locomotive to actually pull a train on a track was a steamer completed by John Stevens on this date, 1824. Peter Cooper's locomotive which actually drew passengers didn't make its appearance until six years later.

Daily Bible Thought

To the Lord our God belongs mercies and forgiveness, though we have rebelled against him.—Daniel 9:9.

AMERICA IN 1950

IF THE AXIS WINS . . .

. . . you'll still be in a uniform, whether you're a man, woman, or child. And your immediate superior won't be a hard - boiled American sergeant—he'll be a Nazi gauleiter, a storm trooper or a swaggering Japanese militarist.

IF AMERICA WINS . . .

. . . you can be certain that your loved ones now in uniform will be back with you, working at their old jobs and enjoying life as only Americans can. And to get that form of life, you have to support your government now, by investing 10% of your money in War Bonds.

A Farmer's Diary

Back Roads

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

TO GET down into the valley where our little cottage stands, I can take the smooth asphalt highway from the city through the village, then south another mile. Here, upon the smooth surface, great trucks go to the mines for coal and come back loaded. Here tall trailers, like huge box cars clang rapidly past. Here new shiny cars and some models made in early days slip by at 35 miles an hour. But when I reach the eastward turn and my worn tires jostle up and down upon a washboardy gravel road, I feel safe and more at ease.

On this narrow road, when autos pass, they almost stop because the ditch on either side is steep, or it may be a friendly neighbor hails me with a bit of information, and then the two cars take up the working surface of the road. But what difference does it make, so long as there is room to pass, and to see ahead?

I am glad it twists and turns and is in many places rough and stony. The children can more safely drive the Jersey cow along the edge. The Leghorn hens when scratching in the ditch, have ample time to make a slow decision and then deliberately reach the other side.

Here, too, the mother skunk may in bright October moonlight, lead her quintuplet family to tasty feeding grounds without the drivers suspicioning her presence. Young rabbits sit upon tender haunches, by day, and stare at the cars that go slowly bumping by. Only a few feet from the driver's seat, the meadowlark perches on some overhanging bush, and sings her quivering liquid note. The chipmunk bounds parallel along the zigzag line of worm fence. The cock pheasant crows from a clump of weeds and the dainty mother feeds and dusts her brood along the narrow berm.

Farther up, along the sandy slopes, choke cherries bushes bend with rich dark fruit. Thrifty hazelnuts that need no planting, flaunt their oily clusters along the stony banks. Across the maze of autumn colored leaves, the shellbarks drop their moist gray-white nuts—even on the surface of the lonely road. Beechnuts and acorns hide in the leafy covering.

I like to touch the overhanging oak leaves. I like to feel the coolness of each little hollow. I like to breathe the woodsy autumn fragrance until it becomes a part of me. I thank God often, for winding, twisting roads. It seems a man may get somewhere faster, even though he loops a mile around some noble rugged hill.

Wildcats Itch For Action

Prep For Goal Line Stands Against Bucks.

EVANSTON, Ill. —(AP)— Northwestern's Wildcats, eager to regain their lost football prestige, today were reported itching to get in action against Ohio here Saturday, but Wildcat Coach Lynn Waldorf indicated he was plenty worried over the scoring prowess of the nation's No. 1 team.

* * *

Waldorf stressed goal line stands as the Wildcats ended heavy workouts in preparation for the invasion of Coach Paul Brown's Buckeyes, whose four straight victories have earned them a place at the top of a nation-wide poll of sports writers. The Wildcats ran through several defense systems near the touchdown stripe.

* * *

The game began to look like a ground-aerial duel between two of the nation's outstanding stars—Fullback Gene Fekete of Ohio State who has averaged 13 points a game, and Otto Graham, Wildcat pass flipper, who completed 20 of 29 heaves for 295 yards as the 'Cats lost to Michigan 34 to 16 last Saturday.

The Bucks will take the field Saturday without the services of regular Halfback Paul Sarringhaus, who Brown said would be out with a lame ankle. This wasn't expected to bother the Ohioans any, however, as backs Tommy James and George Slusser, both of whom learned their football under Brown at Massillon, O., high school, are considered capable replacements.

Northwestern will be looking for its first conference win, having dropped its only Big Ten contests with Purdue and Michigan.

SHUTOUT RETIRED UNTIL NEXT SEASON

NEW YORK—(AP)—The three-year-old racing scramble between Shut Out and Alsab is going to remain a turf omelet for the remainder of the year.

The plans for Equipoise's best son and the Al Sabath colt to settle the championship between them were flattened today when it was learned that Shut Out came sore in his latest race and would be retired until 1943.

Anderson Headed For Halas' Job

* * *

Owner-Coach Halas, who now is awaiting marching orders from the navy, has announced that one of his three aids, Anderson, Luke Johnson, end coach, or Paddy Driscoll, backfield coach, would succeed him when he enters the service.

* * *

TAPPAN'S LAST RANGE DONATED TO RED CROSS

War Causes Interruption of Continuous Output First Time in 61 Years.

The last white enamel gas range off the Tappan Stove company assembly line for the duration of the war has been presented to Richland county chapter of the Red Cross to speed the work of the nutrition and canteen courses.

"But it is for the biggest purpose in the world," Paul Tappan, company president, told the Red Cross chapter executives when he made the presentation, "as it marks the turn over of the plant to the manufacture of products for army and navy and air to help win the war and bring back the days when countries and men will be free and production can proceed with the requirements of peacetime.

The new stove will be installed in a Red Cross canteen classroom that will likely be set up as soon as enrollment is complete for nutrition and canteen classes, Miss Van Gundia said.

HARRIS APPLIES FOR ARMY ENLISTMENT

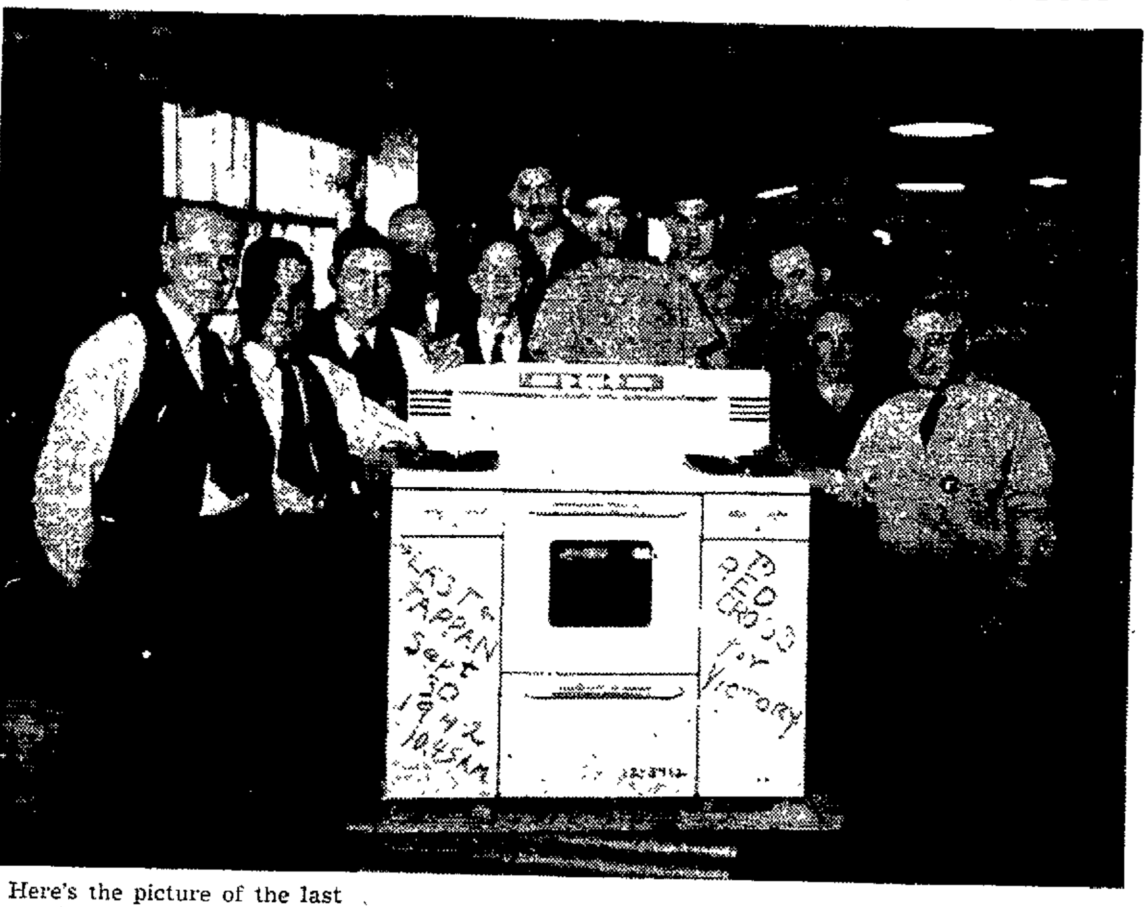
WASHINGTON—(U.P.)— Stanley (Bucky) Harris, former manager of the Washington Senators, has filed an application for the army specialists' corps.

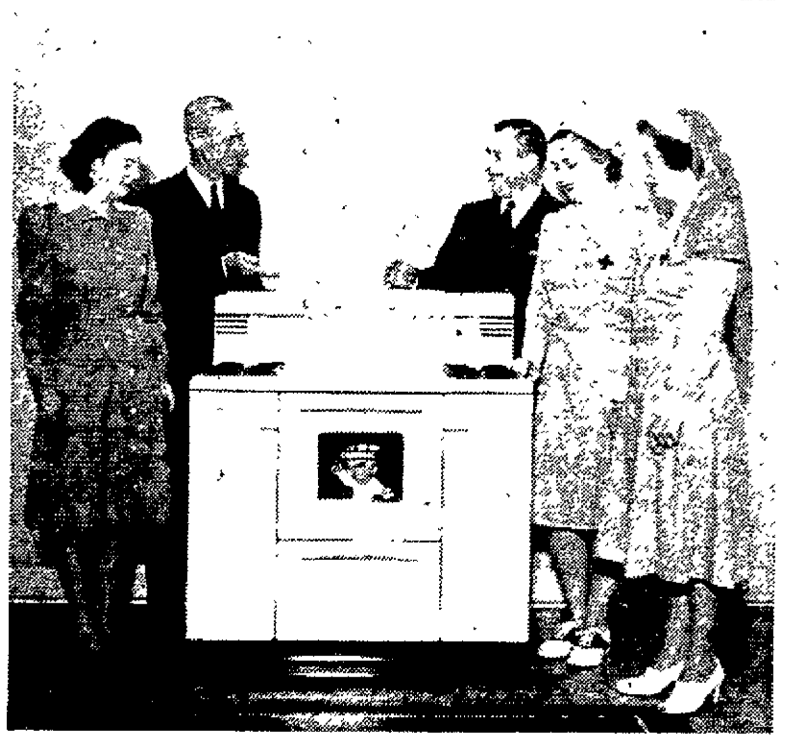
Harris said that if he is accepted, he hopes to be assigned to duty in the physical recreation program of the signal corps.

DECLARE DIVIDEND

CINCINNATI — (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds declared a 1942 dividend of $1 a share for it 6,000 shares of common stock, compared with $5 in 1941 and $12 in 1940.

Range Given Red Cross for Nutrition Work





Here's the picture of the last range to come off the assembly line at the Tappan Stove company before full conversion to wartime production. The range, the last to come from the track after continuous range production over a period of 61 years, has been presented to Richland county chapter of the Red Cross for use in nutrition and canteen classes. The picture at the top shows the range at the end of the track surrounded by the men who worked on it. Pictured left to right: J. LeMunyon, B. Hower, W. Mabee, R. Hammer, R. M. Lamb, P. Kurbad, R. Birch, county Red Cross chairman; Mrs. W. B. Ford, Red Cross nutrition chairman; Mrs. W. E. Slaybaugh, nutrition instructor, and Miss Lenore Van Gundia, executive secretary of the Red Cross.

PITTSBURGH EASES BAN ON FRESHMEN

PITTSBURGH —(U.P.)—The University of Pittsburgh today eased the ban against use of freshmen in varsity athletics by giving Football Coach Charley Bowser the option of using yearlings against schools employing freshmen players.

The decision of the faculty committee on athletics gives Bowser the right to use first-year players in the game with Carnegie Tech, and in home-and-home contests with Penn State.

PROVIDES TIP

TYLER, Tex.—(U.P.)—The memories of bruises on head, hands and knees incurred in 20 years of crawling under houses in his work as a plumber brought the following suggestion from an anonymous Tylerite:

"How about looking under you house for scrap? I know it's there, for I've contacted it at one time or another over the past 20 years—and I've got the scars to prove it."

CHAPTER XXVIII

"But that isn't the end of the story, Temple, because having money isn't the end to anything except perhaps personal wants and needs. You see, I wanted one thing I had never had. Here in Washington I'm a fad. I am amusing, they tell me, and I throw good parties. All of us like to go to parties; so it hasn't been difficult to have some rather important people come to mine. But the thing I always wanted I never had—never achieved, perhaps is truer. I wanted the respectability, the certainty, of the kind of life my first husband's family had had and still have. I wanted to have a family and to be a part of family life. I wanted to be normal and respected and well-to-do. I never made the grade, darling.

"The kind of man I wanted to marry never wanted to marry me and the kind I didn't want always wanted to marry me. I've often blamed my hair. That's ridiculous, isn't it? But there's something about a red-headed woman that makes men want to whistle. . . . So I've looked into a great many back yards during all these years and a great many doors have been opened to me and most of the 'No Trespassing' signs have been removed. But not one door, not one sign and the forbidden grass is still the greenest. I don't mean my first husband. I mean the life that went with him, the life I caught a little glimpse of once and never forgot.

"He came to one of my parties here a few years ago. People who have been mad about each other in their twenties should never meet twenty years later. It was sad. He married again, of course, and had children. I wanted children, too. He plays around a good bit, but always within the law. But he always goes back to the door that was closed on me."

"I got away from the city block. I saw the world and had two husbands and was left a fortune. But I was a mongrel. Poor Grandpappy . . . Blame it on him that there is something common about me.

"This has the sound of a confession rather than a life, Temple. It isn't. It's a life with a confession in it. I've left a lot of it out that, as the years have passed, has become unimportant to me—places and people, some lovely places and some important people and a few men I thought I was in love with. But of all the lovely places I remember one and an incident that went with it.

"I'll never forget the first day I saw the Bay of Naples and walked beside it, thinking how wonderful it would be to be terribly in love with someone in Italy in the spring. When I turned around, I saw my husband coming towards me. He was old and crippled with arthritis. He had to use a cane and his hands were so crippled he dropped things. I earned everything he left me. That's why I have a reputation for being stingy. I earned it."

* * *

Paula reached for her cigarets again and lighted one after Temple had silently refused one.

"What happened to my family?" Paula asked. "You being you would wonder about them. Well, my mother died when I was in Paris. My father wrote me. He did not say of what she had died. I understood. I understood because one who has lived her kind of life doesn't necessarily contract a disease and die of it. One goes to bed one night and doesn't get up again. It's as though the body says, 'I'm tired of it all and I don't want to get up any more. I want to rest. So I quit.'

"I loved her, but not as you love your mother, Temple. You love a person with whom you have shared things. My mother had to share herself with six children and do all the work. One wants sweet memories of one's mother. But all I can remember of mine is her shouting at me 'Paula, go wash your face . . . Paula, set the table . . . Paula help Joey put on his clothes and help him with his lessons . . . Paula, go to the store and hurry.' Do this and do that. It was always bedlam.

"And my father . . . He thought more about the weather than about anything else. In the winter it was too cold for house painting and in the summer it was too hot. And it always rained at the wrong time. I was able to grant his life's ambition: to go into a home for the aged where never again would he hear babies crying in the night or worry about the weather again, come what may.

"And the rest of them? The same plain food and adequate clothes and narrow, airless little houses and children growing up on the streets. The only time I ever hear from them is when they need money. Having a rich sister, you see, they are not as careful as their neighbors about saving for the rainy day.

"Listen, baby, no one person is the whole of your life. He is only a part. Just as a child is only a part of a woman's life. She lives a third of her life without a child, a third with it and the last third without it.

"You wanted to finish college, didn't you, Temple? Well, you may. I'll see you through."

* * *

"Do you think I can be a school girl again?" She shook her head. "You're wonderful to offer it to me, but I can't go back to school now. I don't want to go back to any of the old things. I want to be in on the new things. I'm a girl. I can't enlist and they won't draft me. But I'm young and strong and there must be something I can do."

Paula looked at her with bright eyes for a few moments before she spoke again. "Of course there is, dear. There's a place for everybody. Women can be darned nuisances, you know, in places where they don't belong. Some of the women I know, for instance, who lie awake at night designing uniforms that will be becoming to their faces and figures. No wonder the men laugh at us! The silly women busybodies who go around saluting each other! The women rushing madly about crying about doing 'their bit' while they neglect their husbands and children and home. They should be home. There are enough women like you and me. I'm glad to hear you speak of the things to be done rather than the things that have been done to you."

"Sometimes I still can't believe it."

"I know."

"It is."

"You don't know what to say to me about Jud, do you?"

"Lost for words? Even I? Yes, you're right, darling. That great perhaps of silence leaves even me speechless. It's so—so final. You can't argue about it. Hereafter a boy who has lived and walked with you and loved you will exist only in your mind and in the minds of the few people who will remember him. He didn't live in vain, Temple. There are few of us who don't leave a good mark somewhere, a mark that isn't erased.

"Are people giving you advice? How we love to give advice! Now here I go . . . Why don't you go home for a few weeks? Then come back. I want you to come back. I think I'll be able to find something for you, something new and interesting."

* * *

Temple said, "I can't go until Thalia Santos comes. She is the daughter of the woman with whom I stayed when I was in Florida. She knows what happened to Jud, how it happened—everything."

"How feminine you are, darling. You must know the gruesome details. All women are like that. They have to know how and why." Leaning forward, she patted Temple's hand affectionately. "All right. But you will go home after you've seen her, won't you? And you'll come back?"

Temple nodded. It was strange that her future had to be decided in Washington after all.

She said, "I'll come back, Paula, the things I wanted two years ago I don't want now. You've offered them to me and I don't want them. Did I thank you?"

Paula smiled. "I think you did—after a fashion. And the first time in my life I ever offered to give away my money, it was turned down. I can't even give the darned stuff to you! . . . Well, good-bye, baby, and keep in touch with me."

Later Abby came in. She stood in the doorway and rested her head against the door.

"I saw Mrs. Wayne leave."

"Yes. How is it? Your radio is on."

"It's bad. The Japs are like locusts. They seem to come out of the ground. You drive them from one place and they spring up at another. One day a great swarm of them will come over like the locusts and pick everything clean and level it to the ground . . . Are you feeling better, Temple?"

"Yes, I'm better. Won't you come in?"

"No, not now. It's late and there's another news broadcast in a few minutes. I can't miss it. I haven't missed one."

* * *

The sunlight was streaming brilliantly into her room when Temple came up from breakfast. She was wearing her warm brown wool dress because she had decided to go to the office today and tell them that she was not returning to her job. She had told Mrs. Benson that she was leaving at the end of the week and already her room had been taken by the eager, grateful girl who had come in to look at it last night.

When someone knocked, she thought it was the maid who had been bringing her mail up to her. Turning a pensive face from the window, she went to the door and opened it.

"Mrs. Amory? I'm Thalia Santos."

Mrs. Amory? . . . Temple's throat felt full and hurting . . . Only Jud had called her Mrs. Amory, and always jokingly . . . Mrs. Amory . . . She was Temple Amory . . . Jud had to die so that people could call her by her real name . . . But Thalia Santos must have known before his death that she and Jud were married . . . Else how could she have known?

"Yes, I'm Mrs. Amory. Won't you come in?"

She opened the door wide and Thalia stepped into her room.

She was a tall, broad-shouldered, statuesque girl who wore an expensive black Persian lamb coat so casually that you knew she was unconscious both of the high cost and the becomingness of it. Her stride was long and graceful, the stride of the sportswoman. Her face was interesting and vital, her wide eyes of the uncertain dark color which is usually called hazel, her nose too broad for beauty, her cheek bones high, her mouth large, her teeth large and white. A small black hat sat back from a high pompadour and the ends of her long dark hair curled under. She was the sort of girl who would give little thoughts to clothes, preferring soft, sport things, but who was striking in anything she wore without effort. She was also the sort of girl who would have no mind or eye for small details or small issues.

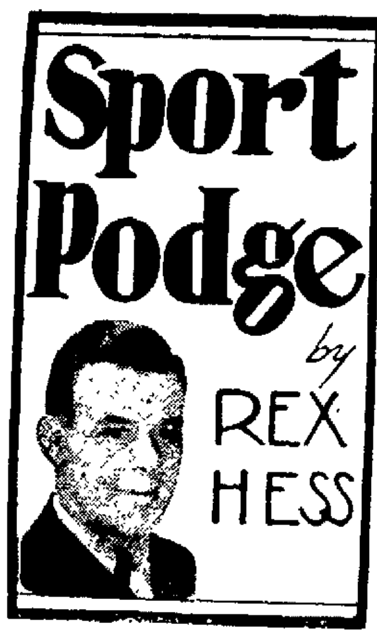
Massillon Seeks Revenge Tonight for 6-6 Tie In 1941

Rams Edge to 13-6 Win Over St. Mary's



It's getting to be a chant: "How about a post season game?"

Ashland wants one with Mansfield, Madison wants one with Mansfield. Mt. Vernon wants one with Fredericktown, but would settle for a Fredericktown-Madison game.

BUT in each case it's the FANS, and NOT the schools doing the chanting. The schools are mum.

* * *

What's with the Ashland-Mansfield thing? Bill McKee in the Ashland Times-Gazette, suggests that although Ashland two years ago decided that year in and year out Mansfield would have too much manpower for the A's and severed gridiron relations, the cause for that action doesn't hold good this season and Ashland fans would like to see their club play the Tygers.

He also suggests that it could be put on for the Community or War Chests of the two communities, thereby painlessly extracting many dollars from the football populace for those worthy causes in both cities.

* *

So let the War Chests play the host
For that chunk of season known as post.

* * *

Down in Mt. Vernon they are beating the drums for a Mt. Vernon-Fredericktown game for the Knox county U. S. O. fund, a Knox county game for the benefit of Knox county soldiers.

But there's no assurance that the Mt. Vernons would beat the Furious Freddies with their great Ollie Cline, who last week tallied 44 points against Mt. Gilead, returning one kickoff for a touchdown. And there's also the question of whether Fredericktown would want to risk its great record against Class A Mt. Vernon.

So the Fredericktown Madison game has been suggested.

* * *

Now, what has happened to the suggestion in this column some time ago of a Mansfield-Madison game? Plenty, as far as the stirring up of fan interest is concerned. Nothing, as far as actual steps toward such a game.

It was suggested as a War Chest benefit, and if anything is to be done about it, it's up to the War Chest committee to get busy. Up to now there's been no action from the committee. Perhaps they don't read the sports page. I wouldn't be surprised.

* * *

None of the five schools mentioned can be expected to challenge an opponent for a post season war benefit game. It will take an outside organization with a good cause to sell to bring them together.

Army-Navy Crowd Sliced

Only Annapolis Fans Permitted at Game.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Thousands of eastern football fans—including probably the secretaries of war and of the navy—were war casualties today by virtue of President Roosevelt's order that only residents of Annapolis, Md., will be permitted to buy tickets to the Army-Navy game there on Nov. 28.

* * *

The White House announced the decision to move the game from its traditional site at the Philadelphia Municipal stadium, capacity 102,000, to U. S. Naval Academy stadium at Annapolis, capacity 23,000.

* * *

Coupled with the announcement were specific orders from Mr. Roosevelt, himself, that tickets for the best crowd-attracter of any regular football season "be issued only to residents of Annapolis—not to outsiders" in order to conserve tires and rubber.

The president also directed "that every precaution be taken to prevent persons living outside of Annapolis—in Washington or Baltimore or other nearby places—from securing tickets of admission to the game."

Weather Causes Poor Game

All Nineteen Points Scored In First Period.

IT WAS a poor night for football but an excellent night for poor football as Madison high school Rams eked out a 13-6 decision over an unpredictable Marion St. Mary's aggregation under the lights on Ram hill last night.

With a drizzling rain falling through most of the game, and at times developing into a downpour, both teams found the going sloggy, and both were guilty of some very poor tackling as they slid off the wet togs of their opponents.

* * *

All 19 points were scored in the first period, and after that the weather put up a stonewall defense in front of the two lines.

* * *

On the third play after the opening kickoff, Danny McGinnis, St. Mary's halfback, started on an ordinary plunge into the middle of the Madison line. Four tacklers had clean cuts at him, and slid off, and the surprised McGinnis found himself out in the open and galloping for the Madison goal line 63 yards away for a touchdown. A pass for point was incomplete and the visitors had a 6-0 lead.

It wasn't many minutes later before Madison took the lead. A long rolling punt by Captain Harold Hammer came to rest on the St. Mary's three-yard mark, and the Saints, after making one first down deep in their own territory, opened up with an ill-advised passing attack.

Dick Bader intercepted the first heave in the flat and raced 30 yards for the tying touchdown, and Hammer went off tackle for the extra point to put Madison in the lead 7-6.

* * *

And in the closing minutes of the first period Bob Anthony started on an off-tackle shoot, wiggled loose from three tacklers, and sped 57 yards for another Madison touchdown to make it 13-6.

* * *

That was all, brother.

The rain came down and ball carriers couldn't get their footing and passers couldn't find the handle on the ball, and offensive efforts ebbed to a feeble effort.

St. Mary's, helped by numerous penalties on the Rams, threatened throughout the last period, twice getting first downs on the Madison 15-yard line, but blowing their chances through futile passing attempts.

The Marion club had 19 incomplete passes last night, and three interceptions.

But they added to the gaiety of the occasion with their unorthodox play, passing in dangerous territory, and once using a flea-flicker pass from fake punt on fourth down and six to go on their thirty-yard line. And it worked for a first down.

Golf Pros Plan War Benefit Tour

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— An exhibition tour by the country's leading golfers with the entire proceeds going to war relief may replace the annual $100,000 winter tour, the tournament committee of the Professional Golfers association announced today.

The committee met Tuesday to discuss possible cancellations of the annual junket but Secretary Fred Corcoran announced that "no definite action" had been taken. All discussions have been tabled for final action at the executive committee meeting in Chicago Nov. 9.

* * *

"Before we could conduct such a tour for relief," Corcoran said, "we would have to settle on a definite minimum amount to be guaranteed service relief and then would have to obtain official approval of the war department."

* * *

Corcoran said he would begin immediately to contact the players still available. He said that sponsors had cancelled only two winter tournaments, the Oakland, Cal. open, and the masters, at Augusta, Ga. Eighteen others still were listed.

Four Tie for Top Position

And Four More Teams Deadlock For Second.

Commercial "B" league keglers are staging the closest race of any of the Mansfield maple gathering circuits these days at Colony alleys.

* * *

Standings today saw four teams tied for first place with four more tied in the runner-up spot only two games away from the top.

* * *

Jim Weems took scoring honors for the league last night with a 613 total while J. Romig turned in high game of 240. Mehl's Service Station had high team total of 2,691, and Yuncker Sports rolled high game of 937.

REPORTS FOR DUTY

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Jack Jacobs, Cherokee Indian rookie halfback who made a briliant record this season with the Cleveland Rams, will report for duty with the Army Air Corps at Oklahoma City Nov. 8. He is 23.

Tyger Majorettes Add Their Dash of Color at Game

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP)—One of the biggest boosts for football we've seen in a long time was a letter that Harvard's Dick Harlow read to the Boston sportswriters the other day. . . . It came from Lieut. Harry Kopp, one of Dick's former Western Maryland players and later a coach, who is in England with the army. . . . Can't quote it all, but here are a few of his remarks: "We play about twice a week. We haven't any padding at all, but that doesn't stop the soldiers. Injuries are nil. . . . No one can ever tell me the American youth is not as tough as anything that walks. . . . It's the best morale builder I have found yet. . . . We have a real tough one coming up soon and no one is afraid. In fact we are ready for the kick-off. I hope it isn't a forward pass but a real Dobie off-tackle play."

* * *

DRAWING A CONCLUSION.

When Colgate plays Penn State tomorrow, two of the oldest coaches in point of service, Andy (14 years) Kerr and Bob (13 years) Higgins, will be on the benches.

* * *

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE.

Contributions to the thoroughbred club's war auction at Keeneland tonight include a dozen or so well-bred colts and fillies, stud service by War Admiral and Blue Larkspur, a set of Man o' War's racing plates, a registered bull and 11 country hams. . . . Joe Gould and Jimmy Braddock already have picked up a fighter in the army. They're lending their expert advice to Welterweight Joe De Martino, a private at Fort Slocum where Joe and Jimmy are training.

* * *

SERVICE DEPT.

New Orleans is planning a ten-team basketball league for service men this winter. . . . Burrell Bell, leading hitter of the Norfolk Naval Training Station baseball team in 1941 B. F. (before Feller), was aboard the Quincy when the ship was sunk in the Solomons.

* * *

WORD GAMES.

When the Clemson freshman footballers found a kid on their squad named Mustar, they immediately tagged him "Hotstuff" and a Marylander suggests that Bob Roulette, frosh back, should be good on spinning plays. . . . Wisconsin's publicity dept. expresses the fear that Purdue will fill Ross-Ade stadium with passes. . . . Well, don't they get their guarantee anyway?

WIDENER AWARDED HORSEMAN TROPHY

The award, made by the Thoroughbred Club of America, will be presented at a barbecue and fish fry sponsored by the club at Keeneland race course here at which services of 28 thoroughbred stallions in seven states will be auctioned to promote the sale of war bonds and to raise money for war and community relief agencies.

Ohio Gridiron Card Sparkles

Sinkwich Visit to Cincy Takes Top Spot.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio State's battling and baffling Bucks, the nation's top grid team, meet Northwestern on the Wildcats' home lot Saturday—but there are some pretty fair gridiron scraps on tap for the Buckeye stay-at-homes.

In a curtain-raiser last night, Youngstown college blanked Geneva (Pa.) college 20 to 0 to snap the Pennsylvanians' four-game winning streak. Youngstown scored touchdowns in the last three periods and placekicked two of its three tries for extra points.

Of the 16 contests involving Ohio college squads Saturday, 14 are on the local gridirons, and some of them are certain to offer plenty of thrills.

* * *

Undoubtedly the No. 1 fracas takes place at Cincinnati, as Coach Joe Meyers' U. of Cincinnati unbeaten-untied Bearcats face mighty Georgia and All-America Frankie Sinkwich, the running-passing-kicking terror from Youngstown.

* * *

Up at Bowling Green the Falcons are having line trouble as they prepare to meet Miami. The Bee-Gees have been beaten once in four starts—and that by a single point.

Four Ohio conference games are on tap, but all eight teams have been beaten in the league. The loop contests are Findlay at Capital, Mt. Union at Heidelberg, Muskingum at Wooster and Baldwin Wallace at Wittenberg.

Other scraps scheduled Saturday:

* * *

Kenyon at Hiram, Ohio Wesleyan at Ohio university, Oberlin at Swarthmore, Marshall at Toledo, Western Reserve at Kent State, Xavier at Dayton, Wright-Patterson Fields at Defiance, Denison vs. Miami Radio Naval Unit at Hamilton, and Marietta vs. Rio Grande at Wellston, the latter three being under the lights.

* * *

Declares Rickey Already Hired

* * *

"Formal announcement to this effect can be expected at any time, today, next week," Williams says. "In any event, it has been definitely decided."

* * *

Rickey, general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, comes to the Brooklyn club on a long-term contract at compromise terms, the details of which are unavailable yet, according to Williams, who states that George Weiss, secretary and vice president of the Yankees, was Rickey's only opposition for the job

Tygers Hope to Make Respectable Showing

Visiting Band Performance Draws Many In Expected Crowd of 8,000

IF A STRANGER in town gets the idea tonight that all of Mansfield is crazy, don't blame the stranger.

And if the bewildered stranger asks a popeyed resident what all the shooting's about and the P. E. resident retorts: "It's the Massillon game," the stranger is apt to be sure for certain that the whole town is nuts.

But that will annoy no one. The whole town gives itself up tonight to the Mansfield-Massillon gridiron mania, a virulent form of insanity that attacks the city just once a year. And the fact that 1,500 gridmaniacs from Massillon will be in the roaring throng will not help any semblance of sanity that may creep into the occasion.

* * *

From the time the high school starts its pep rally in Central park at 5:45 p. m. until the end of the game, at Stadium field, the town will be in an uproar. There may be some headaches later when the score is added up, but that won't spoil the fun.

* * *

The Mansfield Tyger band will lead the parade to Central park, and then, after the rally, will lead a gigantic snake dance to Stadium field. Included in the parade will be an army recruiting caravan including a 25-piece band with musicians from the best known dance orchestras in the country, also an army jeep, mobile unit, and army trucks.

There will be the usual warm-up practice sessions by the Mansfield and Massillon teams, the customary flag raising ceremony, the flip of the coin, and the game will be on. A large part of the crowd, expected to approximate 8,000 persons, will be waiting for the between-halves appearance of the famous Massillon high school band of 92 pieces, whose performance has been rated by many competent observers as "the greatest show on earth."

Coaches of both teams have agreed to a 40-minute intermission between halves to let the Massillon band perform. First in the intermission a group of Mansfield enlistees in the navy will be introduced while the assembled crowd gives the salute to the flag.

The Massillon band will have a large part of the remaining time, followed by the Mansfield band.

Massillon comes here tonight seeking revenge for a 6-6 tie which marred its undefeated record last season. And although in some quarters there has been the prediction that the Tigers would give their second team plenty of experience tonight and rest up the regulars for games to come, Massillon is expected to let its first team ramble in the hope of running up a score.

Mansfield's Tygers will be in there to make as good a showing as possible, and to attempt to hold the score down to respectable figures.

Probable starting lineups for tonight's game:

Picks Wolves Over Gophers

Expert Tries Hand at Other Games Tomorrow.

By HERB BARKER

NEW YORK—(AP)—Taking the usual scatter-shot at the weekly football program:

Notre Dame-Illinois: The renaissance of Illinois football under Ray Eliot has been one of the season's chief high-spots. Notre Dame, after a disappointing start, reached a peak against Iowa Pre-Flight and seems ready to move on. This looks like an even proposition from any angle and the coin spins. . . . Notre Dame.

Georgia Tech-Navy: Tech numbers Notre Dame among its victims. Navy has done nothing this season to warrant this vote going anywhere but to Georgia Tech.

* * *

Michigan - Minnesota: The Wolverines have a scoring punch against top-flight competition. Minnesota has been a far cry from the machines Bernie Bierman sent to the football wars. Michigan.

* * *

Ohio State-Northwestern: In which the nation's current No. 1 ranking team meets a dangerous rival. Ohio State, but the Buckeyes will need to watch Otto Graham.

Duke-Pitt: The Dukes have gotten themselves organized. Duke.

Alabama-Kentucky: On the face of the records, Alabama should be a sure thing.

Southern California-Stanford: Southern Cal.

Santa Clara-U. C. L. A.: One of the toughest games of the day to figure. A flier on U. C. L. A.

North Carolina State-Holy Cross: N. C. State.

Brown-Princeton: This vote for Brown.

Iowa-Indiana: Very tough indeed. Out of the hat. Indiana.

Wisconsin-Purdue: Purdue badgered. Wisconsin.

Great Lakes-Michigan State: Taking Great Lakes.

Iowa State-Missouri: Should be easy for Missouri.

California-Washington: The nod goes to Washington.

Wildcats Itch For Action

Prep For Goal Line Stands Against Bucks.

EVANSTON, Ill. —(AP)— Northwestern's Wildcats, eager to regain their lost football prestige, today were reported itching to get in action against Ohio here Saturday, but Wildcat Coach Lynn Waldorf indicated he was plenty worried over the scoring prowess of the nation's No. 1 team.

* * *

Waldorf stressed goal line stands as the Wildcats ended heavy workouts in preparation for the invasion of Coach Paul Brown's Buckeyes, whose four straight victories have earned them a place at the top of a nation-wide poll of sports writers. The Wildcats ran through several defense systems near the touchdown stripe.

* * *

The game began to look like a ground-aerial duel between two of the nation's outstanding stars—Fullback Gene Fekete of Ohio State who has averaged 13 points a game, and Otto Graham, Wildcat pass flipper, who completed 20 of 29 heaves for 295 yards as the 'Cats lost to Michigan 34 to 16 last Saturday.

The Bucks will take the field Saturday without the services of regular Halfback Paul Sarringhaus, who Brown said would be out with a lame ankle. This wasn't expected to bother the Ohioans any, however, as backs Tommy James and George Slusser, both of whom learned their football under Brown at Massillon, O., high school, are considered capable replacements.

Northwestern will be looking for its first conference win, having dropped its only Big Ten contests with Purdue and Michigan.

SHUTOUT RETIRED UNTIL NEXT SEASON

NEW YORK—(AP)—The three-year-old racing scramble between Shut Out and Alsab is going to remain a turf omelet for the remainder of the year.

The plans for Equipoise's best son and the Al Sabath colt to settle the championship between them were flattened today when it was learned that Shut Out came sore in his latest race and would be retired until 1943.

Stauffer Hits Total of 592

Hensler Gets High Game In Westie-B.

H. Stauffer banged out a 592 total on games of 199-180-213 to take top scoring honors in the Westinghouse "B" bowling league at Colony lanes last night.

P. Hensler rolled high game of 234.

Anderson Headed For Halas' Job

* * *

Owner-Coach Halas, who now is awaiting marching orders from the navy, has announced that one of his three aids, Anderson, Luke Johnson, end coach, or Paddy Driscoll, backfield coach, would succeed him when he enters the service.

* * *

TAPPAN'S LAST RANGE DONATED TO RED CROSS

War Causes Interruption of Continuous Output First Time in 61 Years.

The last white enamel gas range off the Tappan Stove company assembly line for the duration of the war has been presented to Richland county chapter of the Red Cross to speed the work of the nutrition and canteen courses.

Completion of the last range interrups for the first time the continuous production of ranges for the Tappan company over a period of 61 years.

"But it is for the biggest purpose in the world," Paul Tappan, company president, told the Red Cross chapter executives when he made the presentation, "as it marks the turn over of the plant to the manufacture of products for army and navy and air to help win the war and bring back the days when countries and men will be free and production can proceed with the requirements of peace-time.

The new stove will be installed in a Red Cross canteen classroom that will likely be set up as soon as enrollment is complete for nutrition and canteen classes, Miss Van Gundia said.

HARRIS APPLIES FOR ARMY ENLISTMENT

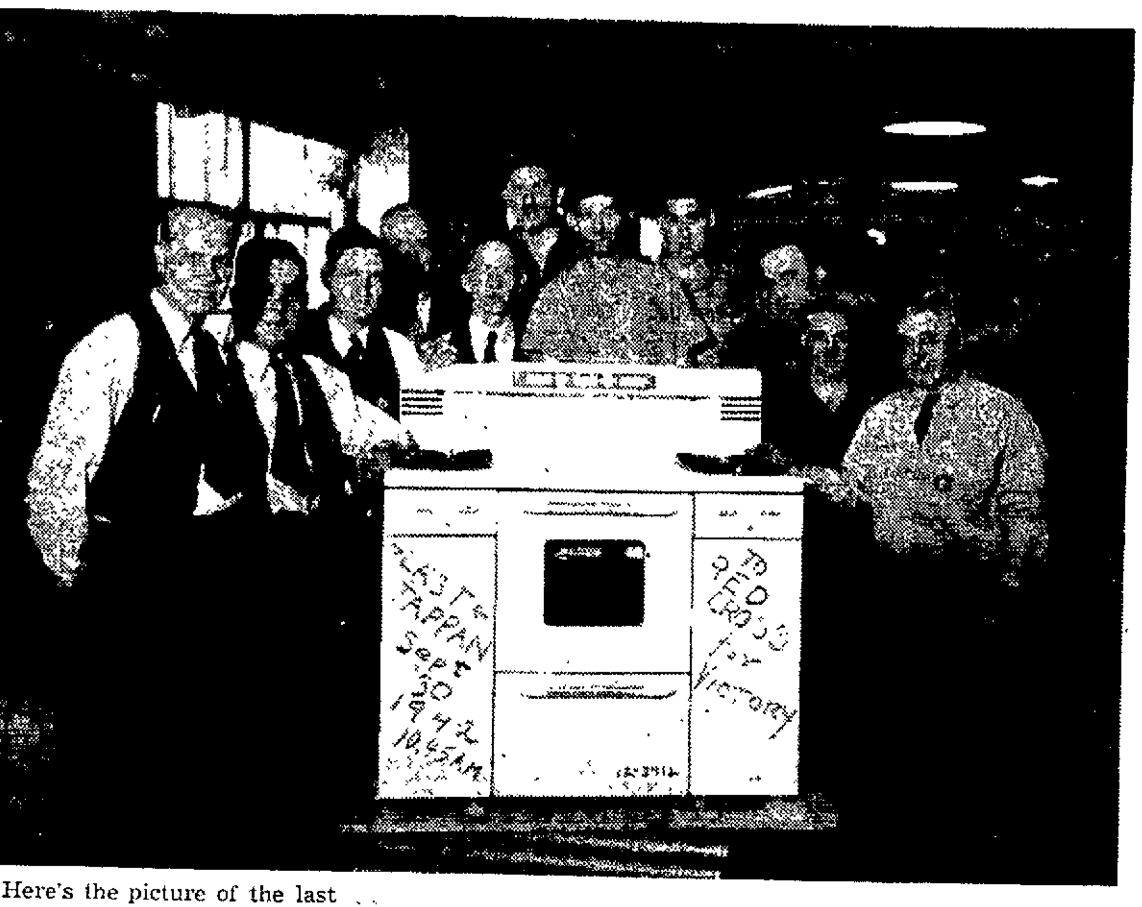
WASHINGTON—(U.P.)— Stanley (Bucky) Harris, former manager of the Washington Senators, has filed an application for the army specialists' corps.

Harris said that if he is accepted, he hopes to be assigned to duty in the physical recreation program of the signal corps.

DECLARE DIVIDEND

CINCINNATI — (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds declared a 1942 dividend of $1 a share for it 6,000 shares of common stock, compared with $5 in 1941 and $12 in 1940.

Range Given Red Cross for Nutrition Work



Here's the picture of the last range to come off the assembly line at the Tappan Stove company before full conversion to wartime production. The range, the last to come from the track after continuous range production over a period of 61 years, has been presented to Richland county chapter of the Red Cross for use in nutrition and canteen classes. The picture at the top shows the range at the end of the track surrounded by the men who worked on it. Pictured left to right: J. LeMunyon, B. Hower, W. Mabee, R. Hammer, R. M. Lamb, P. Kurbad, R. PITTSBURGH EASES BAN ON FRESHMEN

PITTSBURGH —(U.P.)—The University of Pittsburgh today eased the ban against use of freshmen in varsity athletics by giving Football Coach Charley Bowser the option of using yearlings against schools employing freshmen players.

The decision of the faculty committee on athletics gives Bowser the right to use first-year players in the game with Carnegie Tech, and in home-and-home contests with Penn State.

PROVIDES TIP

TYLER, Tex.—(U.P.)—The memories of bruises on head, hands and knees incurred in 20 years of crawling under houses in his work as a plumber brought the following suggestion from an anonymous Tylerite:

"How about looking under you house for scrap? I know it's there, for I've contacted it at one time or another over the past 20 years—and I've got the scars to prove it."

CHAPTER XXVIII

"But that isn't the end of the story, Temple, because having money isn't the end to anything except perhaps personal wants and needs. You see, I wanted one thing I had never had. Here in Washington I'm a fad. I am amusing, they tell me, and I throw good parties. All of us like to go to parties; so it hasn't been difficult to have some rather important people come to mine. But the thing I always wanted I never had—never achieved, perhaps is truer. I wanted the respectability, the certainty, of the kind of life my first husband's family had had and still have. I wanted to have a family and to be a part of family life. I wanted to be normal and respected and well-to-do. I never made the grade, darling.

"The kind of man I wanted to marry never wanted to marry me and the kind I didn't want always wanted to marry me. I've often blamed my hair. That's ridiculous, isn't it? But there's something about a red-headed woman that makes men want to whistle. . . . So I've looked into a great many back yards during all these years and a great many doors have been opened to me and most of the 'No Trespassing' signs have been removed. But not one door, not one sign and the forbidden grass is still the greenest. I don't mean my first husband. I mean the life that went with him, the life I caught a little glimpse of once and never forgot.

"He came to one of my parties here a few years ago. People who have been mad about each other in their twenties should never meet twenty years later. It was sad. He married again, of course, and had children. I wanted children, too. He plays around a good bit, but always within the law. But he always goes back to the door that was closed on me."

"I got away from the city block. I saw the world and had two husbands and was left a fortune. But I was a mongrel. Poor Grandpappy . . . Blame it on him that there is something common about me.

"This has the sound of a confession rather than a life, Temple. It isn't. It's a life with a confession in it. I've left a lot of it out that, as the years have passed, has become unimportant to me—places and people, some lovely places and some important people and a few men I thought I was in love with. But of all the lovely places I remember one and an incident that went with it.

"I'll never forget the first day I saw the Bay of Naples and walked beside it, thinking how wonderful it would be to be terribly in love with someone in Italy in the spring. When I turned around, I saw my husband coming towards me. He was old and crippled with arthritis. He had to use a cane and his hands were so crippled he dropped things. I earned everything he left me. That's why I have a reputation for being stingy. I earned it."

* * *

Paula reached for her cigarets again and lighted one after Temple had silently refused one.

"What happened to my family?" Paula asked. "You being you would wonder about them. Well, my mother died when I was in Paris. My father wrote me. He did not say of what she had died. I understood. I understood because one who has lived her kind of life doesn't necessarily contract a disease and die of it. One goes to bed one night and doesn't get up again. It's as though the body says, 'I'm tired of it all and I don't want to get up any more. I want to rest. So I quit.'

"I loved her, but not as you love your mother, Temple. You love a person with whom you have shared things. My mother had to share herself with six children and do all the work. One wants sweet memories of one's mother. But all I can remember of mine is her shouting at me 'Paula, go wash your face . . . Paula, set the table . . . Paula help Joey put on his clothes and help him with his lessons . . . Paula, go to the store and hurry.' Do this and do that. It was always bedlam.

"And my father . . . He thought more about the weather than about anything else. In the winter it was too cold for house painting and in the summer it was too hot. And it always rained at the wrong time. I was able to grant his life's ambition: to go into a home for the aged where never again would he hear babies crying in the night or worry about the weather again, come what may.

"And the rest of them? The same plain food and adequate clothes and narrow, airless little houses and children growing up on the streets. The only time I ever hear from them is when they need money. Having a rich sister, you see, they are not as careful as their neighbors about saving for the rainy day.

"Listen, baby, no one person is the whole of your life. He is only a part. Just as a child is only a part of a woman's life. She lives a third of her life without a child, a third with it and the last third without it.

"You wanted to finish college, didn't you, Temple? Well, you may. I'll see you through."

* * *

Temple moved against the pillows.

"Do you think I can be a school girl again?" She shook her head. "You're wonderful to offer it to me, but I can't go back to school now. I don't want to go back to any of the old things. I want to be in on the new things. I'm a girl. I can't enlist and they won't draft me. But I'm young and strong and there must be something I can do."

Paula looked at her with bright eyes for a few moments before she spoke again. "Of course there is, dear. There's a place for everybody. Women can be darned nuisances, you know, in places where they don't belong. Some of the women I know, for instance, who lie awake at night designing uniforms that will be becoming to their faces and figures. No wonder the men laugh at us! The silly women busybodies who go around saluting each other! The women rushing madly about crying about doing 'their bit' while they neglect their husbands and children and home. They should be home. There are enough women like you and me. I'm glad to hear you speak of the things to be done rather than the things that have been done to you."

"Sometimes I still can't believe it."

"I know."

"It seems such a waste."

"It is."

"You don't know what to say to me about Jud, do you?"

"Lost for words? Even I? Yes, you're right, darling. That great perhaps of silence leaves even me speechless. It's so—so final. You can't argue about it. Hereafter a boy who has lived and walked with you and loved you will exist only in your mind and in the minds of the few people who will remember him. He didn't live in vain, Temple. There are few of us who don't leave a good mark somewhere, a mark that isn't erased.

"Are people giving you advice? How we love to give advice! Now here I go . . . Why don't you go home for a few weeks? Then come back. I want you to come back. I think I'll be able to find something for you, something new and interesting."

* * *

Temple said, "I can't go until Thalia Santos comes. She is the daughter of the woman with whom I stayed when I was in Florida. She knows what happened to Jud, how it happened—everything."

"How feminine you are, darling. You must know the gruesome details. All women are like that. They have to know how and why." Leaning forward, she patted Temple's hand affectionately. "All right. But you will go home after you've seen her, won't you? And you'll come back?"

Temple nodded. It was strange that her future had to be decided in Washington after all.

She said, "I'll come back. Paula, the things I wanted two years ago I don't want now. You've offered them to me and I don't want them. Did I thank you?"

Paula smiled. "I think you did—after a fashion. And the first time in my life I ever offered to give away my money, it was turned down. I can't even give the darned stuff to you! . . . Well, good-bye, baby, and keep in touch with me."

Later Abby came in. She stood in the doorway and rested her head against the door.

"It's bad. The Japs are like locusts. They seem to come out of the ground. You drive them from one place and they spring up at another. One day a great swarm of them will come over like the locusts and pick everything clean and level it to the ground . . . Are you feeling better, Temple?"

"Yes, I'm better. Won't you come in?"

"No, not now. It's late and there's another news broadcast in a few minutes. I can't miss it. I haven't missed one."

* * *

The sunlight was streaming brilliantly into her room when Temple came up from breakfast. She was wearing her warm brown wool dress because she had decided to go to the office today and tell them that she was not returning to her job. She had told Mrs. Benson that she was leaving at the end of the week and already her room had been taken by the eager, grateful girl who had come in to look at it last night.

When someone knocked, she thought it was the maid who had been bringing her mail up to her. Turning a pensive face from the window, she went to the door and opened it.

"Mrs. Amory? I'm Thalia Santos."

Mrs. Amory? . . . Temple's throat felt full and hurting . . . Only Jud had called her Mrs. Amory, and always jokingly . . . Mrs. Amory . . . She was Temple Amory . . . Jud had to die so that people could call her by her real name . . . But Thalia Santos must have known before his death that she and Jud were married . . . Else how could she have known?

"Yes, I'm Mrs. Amory. Won't you come in?"

She opened the door wide and Thalia stepped into her room.

She was a tall, broad-shouldered, statuesque girl who wore an expensive black Persian lamb coat so casually that you knew she was unconscious both of the high cost and the becomingness of it. Her stride was long and graceful, the stride of the sportswoman. Her face was interesting and vital, her wide eyes of the uncertain dark color which is usually called hazel, her nose too broad for beauty, her cheek bones high, her mouth large, her teeth large and white. A small black hat sat back from a high pompadour and the ends of her long dark hair curled under. She was the sort of girl who would give little thoughts to clothes, preferring soft, sport things, but who was striking in anything she wore without effort. She was also the sort of girl who would have no mind or eye for small details or small issues.

IN TROUBLE!
Few of us are so fortunate that we have a surplus laid aside for the adversities of life, which frequently come out of a clear sky, the temporary storms which come when least expected. Provident is no mere fair-weather friend. Provident has been a port in the storm for thousands of deserving folks. Come to us for a courteous confidential consultation.
